FOR TULANE UNIVERSITY OF LOUISIANA

foreword

We of the Jambalaya Staff take a great deal of pride in presenting to you, the students of Tulane University, your 1957 Jambalaya. We have tried to give you the finest yearbook that it was possible for us to produce. We have kept our sights aimed on maturity and tried to eliminate anything that was mediocre or unbecoming to a college yearbook. This year's book has been laid out in a modern, free form. There is no dominant theme

This year's book has been laid out in a modern, free form. There is no dominant theme tying it together, or single idea running throughout. The separate parts of the book are related to one another only as they all pertain to the same subject—a year at Tulane.

We are especially proud of our fine cover and opening section. The cover is an original watercolor of Dinwiddie Hall and Gibson Hall and was done by a Tulane architectural student. The opening section presents our concept of a year at Tulane. Tom Webb's photographs highlight this section and carry out the modern form of the book. Gone are the old fashioned, flat pictures taken with flash bulbs or photo floods. In their place you you will find carefully composed, natural light photographs—each one an artistic study in itself.

In this year's Jambalaya we have tried to stress large, well composed pictures and balanced, well written copy. Our measure of success will be determined by the pleasure you derive now and in the future from your year book.

as a year was not unlike many other years at Tulane. In the future it will probably be indistinguishable from that period known as "my college life". For this reason in presenting our concept of this year at Tulane university we have not concentrated on events that were singular to this school period. Rather we have tried to portray 1957 as a typical year at Tulane. Therefore, as you turn through our opening section you will find yourself not reviewing a chronological summation of the events of this year, but looking at typical happenings, campus and classroom scenes and the millions of entities that make a college, a year, and memories.

into the world of the university

Enter the freshman with a jolt . . . deposited into the new world of university life. The place is foreign, bewildering, and a little frightening to him. Soon, he realizes that he is not alone and that there are many others "in the same boat" as green and new at this college business as he. This primary feeling of fright gives way to relief, and being a part of this "adult world" brings a sense of pride . . "I'm here; I'm a college student now." After this initial shock and period of adjustment comes the traumatic experience of unpacking and getting settled. Looking at his roommate he questions, "Who gets which closet?" . . . or, "Wanna get some drapes at the book store?" . . . and, "Wow, those are some pinups you got there!!" . . . all this is a part of the first encounter with higher education. When the newness wears off and the questions and wide eyed looks are erased, then, and only then, the student has arrived.

The oldtimer has a different outlook. Cocky and sure of himself he returns to the academic (and social) world to see what "has been added" in the form of new freshman girls, good follow-ups on the little black book from the preceding years, and how the professors have ever managed to survive the long summer months without them. There is the pleasure of seeing familiar faces and getting back into the swing of the routine that has molded his life for the past one, two, or three years. Unpacking??? That can wait; there are more important things to do. (Many, however, believe that it saves trouble when the end of the year rolls around if one just does not unpack at all.)

What really lies behind that smile may be the fearful mind of a seared frosh.

orientation-registration-rush

From the first day of orientation, through registration and rushing, confusion reigns supreme as the internal master of all our minds.

The beginning of orientation marks the beginning of a new way of life for all the freshman and new students who have not yet been acquainted with the "Tulane way." The entire program is carefully planned during the summer by an orientation committee of students who devote long preparatory hours to the working out of a successful plan to give information, and, at the same time, enjoyment to all. When the plan reaches the working point, it is then that the wheels of university life are set in action, beginning the journey of another school year.

Before the excitement of orientation has a chance to wear off, we are plunged into perhaps the most confusing aspect of college life—registration. For two days, under and upper-classmen alike are dashing constantly from one place to another, making an attempt to begin the school year in a settled fashion. Both Newcomb and Tulane gyms are scenes of this valiant effort, which, if accomplished within a few hours with no gross errors, deserves recognition. It is a feat which is rarely accomplished.

Midst the confusion of orientation and registration is Rush Week. The wining and dining, smiles and hangovers begin to also take their toll. When fraternity rush ends the clapping songs and bizarre skits of the girls break into full swing. Then . . . boom, plunk black balls, pledge . . . simple as that! This entire period from the first day of orientation until the last day of sorority rush covers almost three weeks. Although at the end we all wonder how we lived through it, we can see that we did survive, and we're glad it all happened because it was fun.

It takes many hours of analyzing for the University to come up with such a complicated registration system.

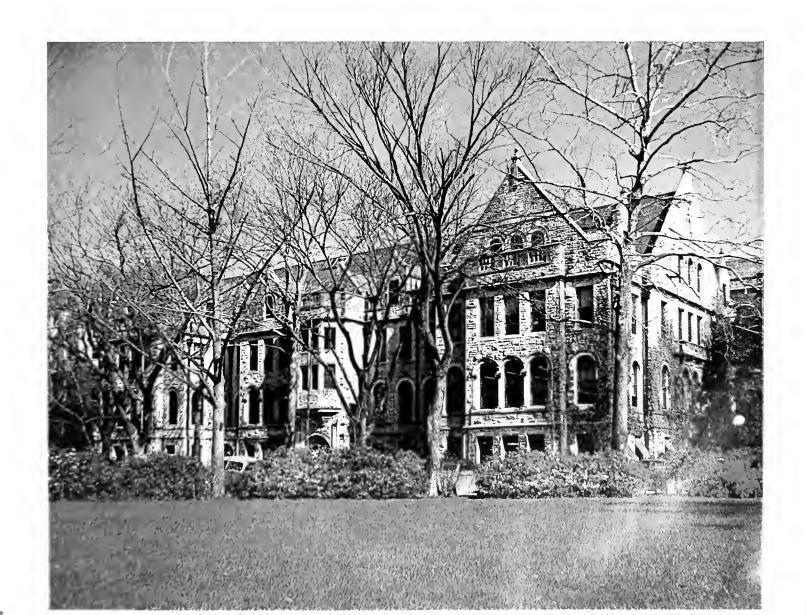

Now, let's see, what was the birthday of my great grand-mother's sister?

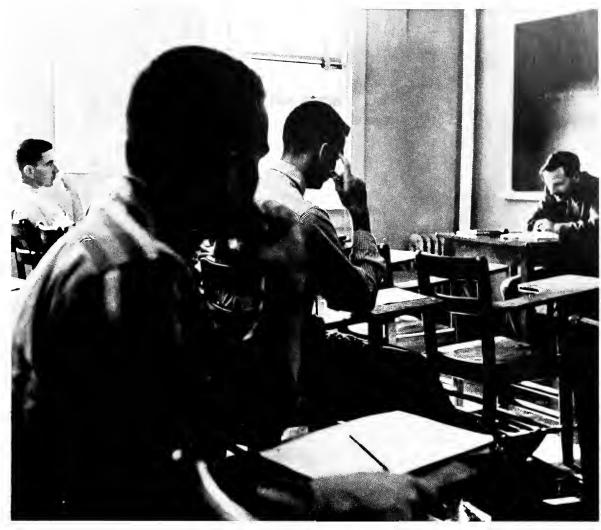

Rush week is a time for fast talking and plenty of parties.

monday morning . . . and classes come early

The scientists of tomorrow listen intently as Dr. Morris expounds on some of the laws of physics.

Budding linguists learn the fundamentals of the foreign languages that play such an important part in an appreciation of English.

Many of the complexities of education are straightened out in the casual air of a small, informal seminar session.

The fun and confusion are over. The fact that one's schedule card indicates he is to report for class at 3 o'clock in the morning causes a reflection, and then a realization that, after all, college is for learning and acquiring academic knowledge, too.

With the ringing of that first 8 o'clock bell the struggle begins—the effort to attain, maintain, and retain assignments, tests, papers, and exams. They are no longer figments of the imagination, they are reality—the "this is what I came to college for." Students attempt to learn courses, but they soon become involved in trying to learn professors. This too is grim reality. Of course, the student himself has quite a bit to do with the professors' ultimate reflection, and it becomes his dedicated effort to sway the professor. That last minute poker game or beer party leads many good intentions astray. Prograstination becomes the soul of all good intentions, forcing the student into a cramming frenzy before the tests. The dark circles and bags under the eyes, the drooping and nodding heads, and the glassy stare which sees nothing are familiar sights to the instructor who must stand and lecture to such victims of vice. Nevertheless it generally works out no better and no worse than the student himself figured it would.

traditions in the Traditions are one facet of school life that give a university color. Tulane's customs give it individuality from other institutions of higher learning.

Friday afternoons would hardly be of any importance if crowds didn't go to Bruno's for a beer to celebrate the arrival of the long awaited weekend. There are likewise traditions that have passed down from time immemorial. The senior processional at the Newcomb Christmas Memorial Service, honoring Harriet Sophie Newcomb is never ending, because it is perpetuated through the years.

The sea of heads capped with a Freshman "Greenie Beanie" is a sight at the football games which is not only familiar, but is required. The "Greenie Beanies" are expected at every game, but the law students' derbys on "Derby Day" are seen only at the Homecoming game. Here is a tradition that will die when there is no law school at Tulane.

Should an outsider pass the fishpond in the Newcomb patio. he might be alarmed to see girls being thrown bodily into the water. If he inquires he would find out that Kangaroo Court, where the sophomores seek vengeance on the freshmen for all their mis-doings, had just taken place, and a few of the more unruly freshmen are receiving their just punishment.

With every new year, new traditions are added to the life of a university, which in time become standard activity for the college student.

between classes, the coffee breaks and elections

Bruff Commons provides a convenient location for a quick gulp of coffee before the eight o'clock class.

Tulane is a Southern school in the truest sense—coffee breaks are the backbone of the university. The faculty, also, seems to feel that coffee need. Rarely are Bruff Commons and Tops Tea Room seen when they are not full of students and faculty playing cards or just goofing off. Many take their breaks (legal and otherwise) in the student center. Too often a cut class has been the result of an interesting chess or bridge game. It is just such casual gatherings that sow the seeds of deeper growth and constitute a definite part of higher learning. These are the incidents that will be remembered and give college life a significance. The coffee break is indeed, the backbone of the university.

At other places on the campus the student on his way to his coffee break may be stopped—argued with—and convinced that Joe Smith should be president of the Tulane Student Council. Or perhaps he needs indoctrination that "Ike" will be a good President. These electioneering groups may be found at any hour of the afternoon—anywhere on the campus. However, their favorite hangout is on the walk in front of the Tulane Cafeteria, making this already busy spot a regular hive of activity. As one walks further up the campus, he leaves the democratic discussions and enters the serene environment of academic knowledge. This is the part of the campus that seems to say, "Slow down—I've been here a long time and will be here a long time—relax."

Aspiring politicos succeed in arousing interest of TU students in national elections.

Stimulating conversation along with coffee, cokes, and cigarettes provides pleasant breaks.

Perfection is the goal of art majors who consistently put in long hours in ceramics.

Visual aids supplemented by a prof's notes greatly increase the student's powers of retention.

the girls go to classes, too

Newcomb is a liberal arts college, composed of girls who were top-flight students in high schools all over the United States and several foreign countries. The curriculum is based on the belief that a liberal arts school gives one an introduction to every aspect of education. Thus, in the academic, music and art schools, are found girls involved in activities ranging from practicing scales to discussing world-shaking problems.

Newcomb is especially noted for its art and music schools. At any time, students can be found in the art school class-rooms, putting the finishing touches to work started during the regular class period, or working diligently on a term project. If one was directed across the quadrangle to Dixon Hall, the music building, there would be other familiar sights and sounds that will not be easily forgotten by music students. Piano scales and warbling voices ring out constantly from students spending long hours in the cell-like practice rooms preparing for student recitals, assemblies, A Capella tours, or just weekly classes.

In Newcomb Hall, where all the academic classes are held, another variety of activities takes place. From nine in the morning to five in the afternoon, knowledge is pursued in the Chemistry and Biology labs and in the humanities classrooms by girls studying anything from French literature to the anatomy of a frog.

Contributing to the intellectual advantages of Newcomb is its location. The cultural opportunities offered by the city of New Orleans—concerts, operas. art exhibits, ballets and plays, to mention a few, give the girls a change to supplement what is learned in the classroom.

Thus Newcomb presents to the world girls who are well-rounded in education.

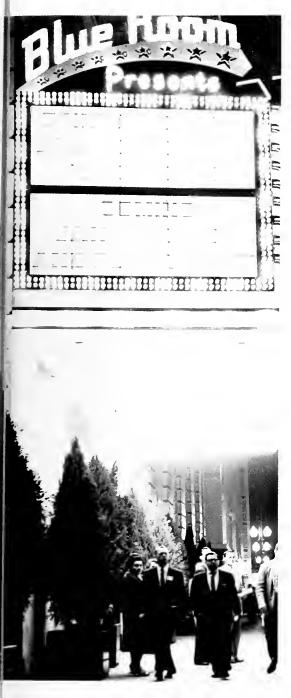

The rides and games at Ponchartrain Beach attract many Tulane fun seekers.

For the stags a Poker game provides an evening's recreation.

An evening at the Blue Room is just the thing for that special occasion.

Time for fun is never neglected at Tulane. It doesn't take much for a crowd to make a week-end complete with merriment. Although conventional, the formals given by the various campus organizations and social groups are still the favorite. The formal itself is a special night because that special person is your date, and because fraternity pins and declarations of affection are often exchanged on such nights. For more rowdy times, the fraternities supply Saturday night parties, (to use the polite word). However, they are actually referred to as "blasts." There are often costume brawls and therefore an opportunity for many to lose their inhibitions —within university regulation, of course! There are offnights, too, when the French Quarter or a downtown movie is the attraction.

Whatever the activities of Saturday night, Sunday morning always rolls around, in many cases, far too soon. There are dates for church with dinner following in the dormitories. Sunday afternoons offer any and every sort of activity from outdoor sports, rides, and walks, to an afternoon in the library with the free flick on Sunday night. As the week-end draws to a close, the dim prospect of the coming week is faced, bearable because of the knowledge of another week-end five days hence.

Five minutes for a cigarette and then back to studying at Howard Tilton library.

With the week beginning anew, we tell ourselves that we will begin over and make the days worthwhile. The plan for the time between weekends is one of study. The library becomes crowded with students, some using books on reserve, some looking up material for that term paper that must be handed in to meet a deadline, or some just trying to convince themselves that they are studying. Many of the students are fired with ambition to accomplish a great deal, perhaps a week's work in one night, but soon each loses his ambition as the weekends' fun and lack of sleep creeps up on him.

Then there are those who make use of the library as a means to squeeze in a date. Study dates are increasing in popularity. Whether it be the study or the date cannot always be determined!

In this week of good intentions and reformed actions, studying even takes place in the dormitories. It's a good place for group study and finding out from others how much you don't know. Staying awake is not as great a problem with someone to constantly probe you with questions. (Alertness is another matter!) The week begins with a bang and an earnest drive which must continue throughout the week, or we fall by the wayside in a rut that is not easy to escape.

Usually there is an overwhelmingly large number of unoccupied seats at the library in the afternoon.

Good intentions fail, as sleep overcomes the ambitious student.

TECH SEM

The big send off before the disappointing Tech game.

the spirit of a university

The spirit a student feels for his university is a reflection of what the school means to him. Spirit is the culmination of a number of things . . . it's the pride one exhibits when asked about his school; it's the send-off the squad receives before the big game; the unexpected pep rallies held by excited students and varsity players; the thousands of rooters at the stadium on any Saturday afternoon during football season. Spirit is also that loyal support of the team when the chips are down. Just a little spirit often raises a team from dejection to aspirations of victory. The cheerleaders are the representative spirit of Tulane; the physical symbol of what the student feels. The many spirit organizations do their part by posting signs and notices around school informing the student body of the various activities, and encouraging the freshman to take part and become boosters of their university and all its functions.

Annual elections of the homecoming court set the ball rolling for the festivities of the season. With the selection of the queen and her court the mood was set for the big day. As usual, all the sororities and particularly the fraternities, worked throughout the long, but fun-filled night to complete their house decorations in time for the judging. Old grads from all over the country returned for the big day and made the rounds of the various fraternity and sorority houses decorated for the occasion. The day was grand for football and the stands were packed. The game proved exciting from start to finish. The Greenies were defeated, but the spirit of the day was not lost. Instead, everyone attended the Homecoming dance that night, The dance was climaxed by the presentation of the Homecoming Queen, Ruth Harper, and the court. The fun of Homecoming, with its hectic rush to decorate the sorority and fraternity houses, with Law students taking over the campus carrying canes and wearing Derby hats, and the general air of lestivities that prevailed had reached its end. All was over until the next year.

Tulane is proud of her medical school. The school, under the direction of Dean Max Lapham, is particularly acclaimed for its superiority in the field of tropical diseases. The entrance requirements are hard and taxing but the outcome is extremely rewarding.

Tulane medical students are not a very familiar sight at many of the social functions. Freshmen, especially, seem to confine their activities to eating, studying, and walking to and from school with a little sleeping on the side—mostly as an extra curricular activity.

When the freshman year is finished the student moves on to more interesting work at a new location—Tulane's uptown medical school. The downtown campus is a thing of the past as the student takes his place in New Orleans' center of medical knowledge.

Saturday night the medical student relaxes and devotes a little time to social life. Here is the time for him to forget his problems in a quiet place with a date, or at one of the fraternity blasts with the other students. Then all of a sudden it's over and Monday is here again. Once again the work piles up, with only the encouraging thought that someday the goal of becoming a doctor will be achieved.

Tulane med students get not only educational, but also practical instructions.

architects and engineers . . . builders of the future

Surveying is much easier on nice days.

Architectural students en masse are a less frequent sight. Their activities seemed to be confined more to the indoors, glued to their drawing boards and other supplies. The lights of Dinwiddie Hall burn late into the night, as the students slave to complete the grueling five year course.

Although of serious minds, the students of the two schools are quite capable of having fun and enjoying themselves. Just like everyone else, they reserve their week-ends for play. And then there's always the Beaux Arts Ball—Need we say more?

The Architecture and Engineering Schools are composed of young men of both an analytical and practical nature. Here, we find the more diligent students on the campus.

On any fair day, the engineering students can be spotted all over the campus, mapping out the area. Equipped with tripods and transits, they give the impression of a construction company so large that it requires twenty-five surveyors at once.

on any saturday afternoon

The bell on Saturday morning heralding the end of classes acts as a trigger to the students to "get away from it all". Getting away from it all involves for some an afternoon of well-deserved sleep, while for others it may be a movie or an afternoon spent drinking beer at Bruno's. The sporting fans can be found bowling. playing golf or tennis, or watching football on television. Many of the girls spend their Saturday afternoons shopping on Canal Street.

During football season, the rush, crush and excitement of the game becomes the afternoon pastime. After the game, a frat open house is always in order. During the Racing Season, the Fairgrounds are the meeting place for Tulanians with gambling blood.

When Spring rolls around (average New Orleans temperature is a balmy 78°) the lakefront becomes the second campus. Sunbathing, wading and swimming, as well as sailing and water skiing, become the order of the day. Audubon Park is populated in the day (as well as night) by multitudes of students picnicking, playing softball, canoeing and just generally relaxing.

Whether Saturday afternoon is spent at sun-bathing, athletics or just doing nothing, the students have a blast. The mood is casual, as in the dress, because the evening is yet to come and studies are forgotten for a little while.

A warm sun, and the perfect time to wash one's car.

Many sports car enthusiasts spend Saturday afternoon driving around the city.

Some Newcomb and Tulane students head at this time for Audubon Park where bicycles are rented for sightseeing.

Some of the costumes seen at this party require many hours of preparation and many hours to remove.

beaux arts ball

The Grand Brawlroom of the Roosevelt Hotel was the scene this year of the Beaux Arts Ball. This annual, major, social event is sponsored by the A.I.A. This year's theme was Advertising and decorations and costumes were in accordance. Architectural students left their drawing boards to masquerade as such familiar consumer's goods as Pablum Baby Food, Black and White Scotch, Saks' Fifth Avenue, Andrea Doria. French Lines and Brennans' restaurant to mention only a few. Dixieland music flooded the room adding to the din of a real crew of uninhibited people.

Many of the costumes are not difficult to prepare. A little originality is all that is needed.

An intricate costume was prepared by this party-goer advertising Brennan's restaurant.

One of the most unusual costumes was this advertisement for baby food.

Nancy Kirkendal and Sarah Young attended the ball advertising "Saks Fifth Avenue".

After the party most of the couples are completely worn out.

in old new orleans

New Orleans has a history of which. Tulane students become a part, although they come from far and near to school here in the deep south. It is a city set deep in tradition and filled with romantic atmospheres.

The Mississippi River is significant, for it is according to the mighty river's curve that the city is laid out in the pattern of a crescent. The levees holding back the waters of the river are a picturesque scene dotted with animals or shacks or youngsters at play.

The garden district, one of the exclusive residential sections of the city, is filled with old homes that have held generations of native families. The spring fiesta tours are conducted through several of these palatial establishments which represent history in the making.

The French Quarter lends a romantic air to the city.

Pat O'Brien's is a "must" for all who visit or go to school in New Orleans.

Many of the most beautiful homes in the city are found in the Garden District.

A small "Dixieland" group blows a few hot licks in the Quarter.

For various reasons the French Quarter is a strong attraction, particularly with the non-resident students at Tulane. Daytime in the quarter might consist of browsing along the streets and investigating the antique shops with, perhaps, a luncheon date at Galatoires. At night the Vieux Carré lights up, and the various bars become the main attraction. Some have entertainment—dixieland bands, piano players: and some are just quiet, ont-of-the-way spots. Perhaps the most universal attraction in the quarter is the French market. What better way to end a merry evening than with steaming coffee and powdered donghnuts—hot and freshly made.

Students flock to the law school at night to study the coming day's work.

During the day the outside of the law school becomes a forum for the exchange of ideas.

The Tulane law school is widely recognized for its comparative law course. Students come from far away to study the Napoleonic code of law. These students become more easy to recognize on the campus as they acquire a professional air along with their legal knowledge.

The Tulane law student tries to add a little dignity to the university during the year—and then destroys the picture that he has painted with his actions on Derby Day. When out of classes the student lawyers parade around the campus assailing everyone with their canes and waving their derbys at passing girls. They parade in and out of classes, completely disrupting any order that existed prior to their arrival. Derby students also seem to have a bit of fun in the classes themselves. Certain members are able to out-wit the teacher at every turn—good practice indeed for prospective lawyers.

During Moot Court these prospects for the legal world have a chance to exhibit their knowledge. Long hours are spent in preparation for the short exhibition. Then the time arrives and all of the work is forgotten in the excitement of the arguments, points and counterpoints.

In the law library, the other side to the student lawyers' life may be seen. Hours upon hours of tedious work are undergone simply in preparation for the next day's classes. Here the attitude and minds of tomorrow's lawyers are formed.

Moot Court—trials and tribulations of student lawyers.

legal brains of the university

The heart of any law school is its library.

mardi gras

A ball almost every night, breakfasts beginning at midnight, dancing until 4 A.M.—what's the cause of all this merriment? The Mardi Gras season has invaded New Orleans—Mardi Gras, that whirlwind season of parties and balls and parades, costumes and all manner of pre-Lenten gaiety. How can the Newcomb and Tulane students avoid entering into the magnetic spirit of the perpetual party? By February, the students are thoroughly awed by these lavish spectacles, and it is a wonder that any studying at all is accomplished. But who can blame them for fleeing the dormitories for the gay, wild night life of the Mardi Gras season?

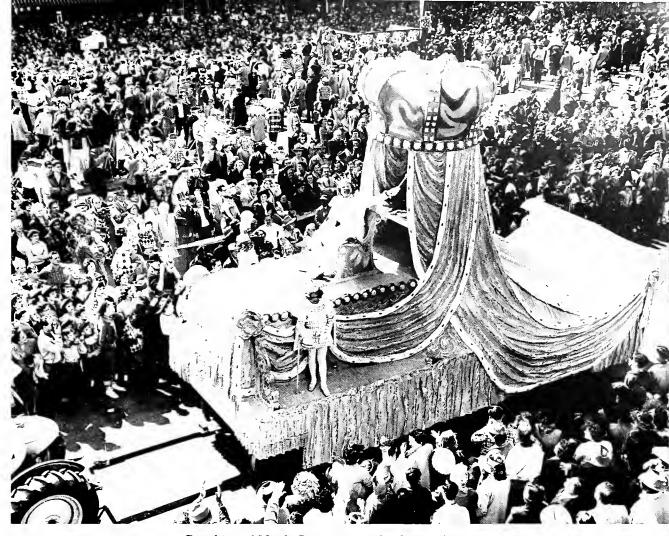

Then come the parades. Some take part, and others merely attend them, mingling in the crowd and reaching for the trinkets that fill the air from February until Ash Wednesday. Whether riding on a fraternity float, singing and shouting or merely "spectating", it is impossible not to be seized by the spirit of carnival fun. To some students it is a familiar, but ever-exciting mood; to others who are participating for the first time it is completely intoxicating.

As Lent draws near, the whirl of activities becomes even more frantic. Two wild days of fun, with no classes being held, climax the season, and on the third day we are back in school.

An entire family dresses in clown costumes for the big day.

Rex, king of Mardi Gras, waves to his loyal subjects.

"Throw me something Mr.," echoes up and down the street.

The streets are jammed as the day whirls to its climax.

Many couples head for the tennis courts when the afternoon is pretty.

spring comes to the campus

And there are those who just like to sleep away the warm afternoon.

All of a sudden it's spring! First semester exams are over, February has arrived, and with it the temperature has soared—the first view of Spring.

Classes are in session, there's homework to be done, but somehow the mind—or is it the heart—just is not on Theories of Modern Business or Remedial Chemistry Problems. The classrooms have an obvious number of vacant chairs, the library is frighteningly quiet—just where has everyone gone? Spring Fever has taken hold of every student on the campus. There are lectures to sleep through, and classes to cut, and all afternoon to play. The quadrangles are a scene of second childhood; baseball is the rage, the tennis courts are packed and the Good Humor man is doing a phenomenal business. A strange sound outside the dormitory windows can only mean one thing—it's the sophisticated Newcombites out for a whirl on rollerskates. A necessity for each Newcomb girl is the New Orleans suntan, usually acquired on the dormitory roof. Lake Pontchartrain, too, comes to life in day and night. Students flock to the lake, whether it be for water-skiing, swimming, or just basking in the sun.

One of the first signs of spring is the rains. Newcomb and Tulane students soon learn that the rain is the limiting factor that keeps them at work indoors and in the classroom; a fact which pleases the professors, and frustrates everyone else. There are those individuals that welcome the rainy afternoons as the perfect time to "catch up" on work that they have neglected in favor of the lake, or an afternoon of tennis, though these are few.

For those who have to study, Spring provides an outdoor classroom, parties and dances,

Kissing the fraternity sweetheart is a pleasant duty of the fraternity president.

The high-lights of the social life during the school year are the spring formals, given by sororities, fraternities, and campus organizations. Almost every weekend in spring, a dazzling array of orchids, tuxedos and bouffant gowns are the signposts to a formal, often preceded by private cocktail parties for members and their dates. Favors are given as souvenirs of a wonderful evening and a grand time. The dances are held at the various hotel ballrooms or country clubs. Occasionally, one of the fraternities will hire a jazz band rather than the conventional dance-type band, which adds color to the gathering.

Next in line to the formals, which undoubtedly hold "top place", are the semi-formals or "much less formal" parties. Here a jazz band is most appropriate along with cocktail dresses and suits—nothing formal is worn. Often two groups or more will make a joint effort and give a party together—a successful way to cut down expense without detracting from the fun. Such parties are not limited to the spring, but take place throughout the year.

Finally, the very small scale dance, that of a few couples, is the conventional Saturday night at the country clubs. No one felt like going to the movies, the French quarter didn't appeal, and there were no scheduled parties. So, a few couples decided to go to the club, only to find that others had the same idea, and thus another party began—perhaps the best of all because so little was expected.

the social life

The party is over and the evening is climaxed by that last kiss before the return to the dorm and another school week.

Exams cause the burning of much midnight oil as a semester's work is crammed into a week's study.

the cramming . . . the study . . . and the exams . . .

The semester catches up with all delinquent students with the approach of the final exams. The two weeks before exams are probably the worst of the college year. Students are frantic; catching up with a semester's work in approximately two weeks is not an easy task, regardless of how adept one is at such feats. Cramming artist or not, worry and dread begin to ease into the minds of all. The realization that nothing, rather than something, is gained for nothing dampens the spirits and precipitates an over-all atmosphere of gloom. By the time the actual exams begin the student body has

By the time the actual exams begin, the student body has taken on the look of creatures from another world. Unshaven beards are characteristic of Tulanians. These beards, and the straight hair of Newcombites and everyone's oldest clothes signify the personality change of the student body. The facial expressions of anxiety, stress and worry are priceless. The days of reckoning produce a range of moods from elation over an easy exam to the deepest depression when four more must still be sweated through.

Break periods relieve the tension to a large degree and allow the student to collect his thoughts. Some students prefer smoke breaks with light conversations—every $10\frac{1}{2}$ minutes. Whatever method the student chooses for studying and taking examinations, the final reaction after exams are over is the same university-wide. Relief is felt by all, worries are non-existent—until the question of grades . . .

A week without sleep has taken its toll, but the exam must be taken.

Nerves are settled in short "breaks" during the long exams.

It's all over and a week's growth may now be removed.

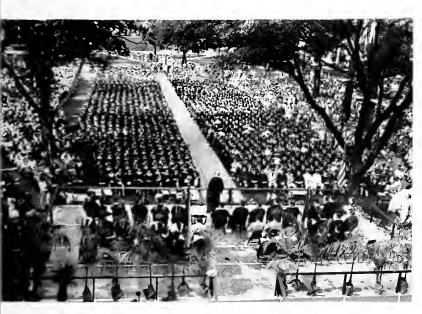

graduation . . . and another year ends

With graduation we come to the end of another year at Tulane. The rows of graduates are impressed with the step in life they are taking and are then sent out to face the future. Tulane now takes on a different look. The campus is deserted . . . benches empty, classrooms void of life. Another year has passed. This one was not unlike all the rest. It saw some new ideas and many old ones brought forth and many new projects started . . . with some finished. With finals over and graduation completed the students spill out from the campus to a variety of places and activities. Some leave to work for the summer-some for life. For many now is the time to relax and enjoy life . . . before it all begins again. To the university one academic year has been completed and planning must get underway for the next. The old year is over, through, dead . . . except in the memories of those who experienced it.

The campus is deserted as another year comes to a close.

Graduation . . . The Big Day.

President Rufus Carrollton Harris

the president's message

This has been an especially significant year for Tulane. To every student, of course, it was significant enough for the activities, achievements, and associations of which the Jambalaya will be a permanent reminder. Yet there were other matters which, although not expected to be recorded in a yearbook, were highly important to the university.

One of these was your very numbers. You represent the van of a swelling tide of college students who already are taxing the country's facilities for higher education. Another matter of moment was the new health insurance program inaugurated by the Student Council, indicating the effectiveness of constructive action and initiation by students in the improvement of services.

The year brought the initiation of several major building projects—the University Center, the Intramural Sports Building, the apartment building for married students, and a new residence hall and food services building for Newcomb College.

The community life of the campus will soon be marked by a new completeness and unity within which the ideal of close attention to the individual student can be realized to an unprecedented degree. I hope it may be completely meaningful to each student.

Rufus C. Harris

division of student life

The student program during the year, 1956-57, has been an exciting one. Plans have been completed for construction of new buildings and now a close study of student services is being made so that the new facilities, such as the new University Center, will bring maximum benefits to the campus community—students, staff, and faculty. With the anticipation of the good things that are to come, campus morale seems to have reached an all time high level. We are very proud of the manner in which our students have responded to the plans for the future. We hope that as alumni they will return to the campus and make frequent use of the new facilities.

The Officers of Administration of the University include the Vice-Presidents. Deans, Directors, and other administrative staff members who direct various departments and divisions in the day-to-day administration of Tulane University. Each is a specialist in a field related directly to education. As leaders in their respective divisions, the Officers of Administration are in a position to meet the students and the public. Keep their names and faces in mind. Every student will be serviced, counselled, advised, or informed by these officers during their stay at Tulane. The University is proud of these men and women for the essential part they play in the University system and takes this opportunity to thank them.

The general governing body of Tulane University is a self-sustaining board of seventeen members, incorporated as the Administrators of the Tulane Educational Fund. The original membership was named by Paul Tulane to receive and administer his gifts. The board, whose membership consists of prominent Louisiana citizens and Tulane alumni, establishes the broad educational policy of the University. It maintains a constant cognizance of the world of education in order that Tulane may continue to set the pace in the field of education. In addition to the seventeen members, the Board consists of three ex-officio members, the Governor of Louisiana, the Mayor of New Orleans, and the State Superintendent of Education. Emeritus members of the Board are Mr. Charles Rosen, chairman emeritus: Mr. A. B. Freeman, vice-president emeritus, and Miss Florence Dymond, member emeritus, Mr. A. P. School of Business Administration DEAN PAUL V. GRAMBSCH

The School of Business Administration has provided its men and women with substantial professional training for business careers since its founding in 1914. Striving to provide the business community with graduates with a working knowledge of business management, the School of Business Administration has sought to enroll students of intellectual competence, good character, and leadership potential.

School of Engineering DEAN LEE H. JOHNSON

The School of Engineering, which has been offering degrees since 1894, is one of the oldest and most well rounded in the South. The school offers curricula leading to the Bachelor of Science degree in Chemical, Civil. Electrical and Mechanical Engineering; and the Master of Science degree in each department.

University College DEAN JOHN P. DYER

University College is the evening and adult education division of Tulane University. It offers degrees in the fields of liberal arts, commerce, medical technology, and nursing. It also offers introductory courses in the fields of engineering and architecture. The faculty is made up of members of the various University faculties plus outside lecturers.

School of Social Work DEAN ELIZABETH WISNER

The School of Social Work is a professional school offering graduate preparation for positions in public and private welfare organizations and agencies. Specialized preparation is offered in group work: family and child welfare: medical. psychiatric, and school social work: and social welfare planning. The School of Social Work is a member of the Graduate Division of the Council on Social Work Education.

Graduate School DEAN ROBERT M. LUMIANSKY

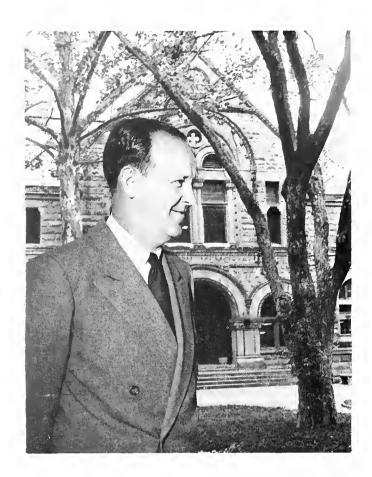

Graduate work at Tulane began in 1883, Courses of study leading to the degrees of Master of Arts, Master of Science, Master of Fine Arts, and Doctor of Philosophy are now offered. Admission to the Graduate School usually depends upon a better than average record in undergraduate school. Steady emphasis is placed upon research training.

School of Architecture DEAN JOHN E. DINWIDDIE

The School of Architecture, through its five year program, strives to integrate the architect as a social human being, a good citizen of his environment large or small. Although the School is primarily concerned with and dedicated to the development of a living and vigorous native architecture for the southern region, it feels that the students should be equipped to adapt their work to any region.

School of Law DEAN RAY FORRESTER

The School of Law has not only as its primary objective the training of students for the practice of Law in Louisiana, but also the training of students for the practice of law in other parts of the country, Latin America, and other foreign countries. The geographical and cultural position of New Orleans is appropriate for the service of a varied group of students with a diversity of legal programs.

School of Medicine DEAN MAXWELL E. LAPHAM

The School of Medicine, founded as the Medical College of Louisiana in 1834, was the first medical school in the Southwest. The usual four-year program leading to the degree of Doctor of Medicine is offered by the medical school plus many graduate courses, degrees in public health, and a number of short courses in different specialties.

Newcomb College DEAN JOHN R. HUBBARD

Newcomb College, established in 1866 by Mrs. Josephine Louise Newcomb as a memorial to her only daughter, was the first women's college to function within the framework of a university. It has a full curriculum of Liberal Arts, and also provides a program of study abroad during the Junior year.

College of Arts and Sciences DEAN WILLIAM W. PEERY

The College of Arts and Sciences, oldest of Tulane's undergraduate schools, assures every student both an opportunity to receive a sound general education and a good base for future specialization. Although some students will enter graduate and professional schools, while others will end their formal education with the bachelor's degree, the college offers to both preparation for positions of leadership and trust.

Summer School DR. T. T. EARLE

Summer school may be attended by students enrolled in any College of Tulane University or any other university. Courses offered are used toward undergraduate and graduate degrees. Summer school offers an opportunity to supplement programs with courses of particular interest, make up deficiencies of prerequisites, and to reduce the length of time required to qualify for a degree.

Walter Ward. President of Tulane Student Body.

Under the Constitution of the Associated Student Body of Tulane University, the powers of student government are vested in the Student Council, which meets twice monthly during the school year. Delegates are from the ten colleges and schools of the university.

The principal duties of the Student Council are to represent the Student Body in all matters of student government; to provide for proper hearings for parties interested in any proposed action; to recommend recognition of student organizations and activities: to exercise financial control over the organizations and activities which receive University funds: and to recommend revocation of the recognition of any organization or activity which fails to fulfill its stated objectives.

The Student Council shares many of the duties of student government with its two operating Boards, the Publications Board and the Student Activities Board. The Student Council's National Student Association Committee also undertakes many worthwhile student government projects during the year. The standing Bookstore and Cafeteria Committees are also active groups each year, as are the special committees appointed from time to time to assist the Council in its duties.

With the development of add, tional facilities for single male students on the campus the need for a stronger resident student government also developed. To meet this need the Office of the Dean of Students approved the establishment of a resident government association to provide for self-government of residents of the four men's residence halls. A Constitution was drafted late in the Spring of 1956 and was amended during the current college year.

The Constitution provided for the election of a President-at-Large and House Councils in each of the residence halls. The President-at-Large automatically became Chairman of the Committee on Men's Residence Halls, comprised of the four House Presidents, four Faculty Advisers, the Assistant to the Dean of Students and the Manager of Honsing. This Committee serves as a reviewing authority for action by the House Councils and sets basic policy for the administration of the men's residence halls.

The 1957 Jambalaya is a pictorial and literary record of the events of the 56-57 session at Tulane University. The presentation of this yearbook represents long hours of hard work on the part of the whole staff and especially the editor, Jerry Cohen. In the beginning discord seemed to be the note but as time went on the book began to shape up and the million pieces of the mammoth jigsaw puzzle called Jambalaya began to fall into place. Many times the midnight oil burned in the little office on the third floor of the Student Center, as the staff raced to meet a deadline. In producing a yearbook, there are so many little things that must be done, involving not only the university's activities, but the problems of having these events recorded and processed.

This year, we of the Jambalaya staff have tried something different in the way of photography; using natural light shots instead of the conventional glare of flash pictures. Our efforts have been rewarded. For the first time, the Jambalaya has had its own full time staff photographers, Tom Webb and Wayne McVadon. Their work clearly shows artistic and comprehensive study of composition and subject matter.

Jane Bruce, Patsy Fleming and Ruth Harper ponder over the fate of some passage in the opening section.

Mel Mathes and Harriet Goldberg chuckle over some of the copy in Mel's Feature section.

Wayne Cooper and Joel Jacobson carefully plan out copy for the fraternity section.

Every article and cut line that is in the 1957 Jambalaya has been written, rewritten and then revised again until it met the high standards of this book. Noisy typewriters constantly clacking turned out captions, write-ups and copy that went with the pictorial section. Roundtable cussing and or discussing finally ended in agreement, the best always winning out.

The layout and design work was carefully planned before the school year ever began. Additions cause extra trouble and take more time but somehow they, too, were put into their proper place. The JAMBALAYA for the past years has outdone itself by presenting original and smart covers. This year is no exception and it was created by Dick Lyle on the drawing board at the Architecture School.

All work and no play makes John (or Barney, as the case may be) a dull boy and that would be disastrous, so there were many enjoyable times, too. The four o'clock deadline on Friday afternoons marked the hour for all staff members to take up journalism and six point beer at Bruno's.

Despite all of the hard labor involved, we of the staff enjoyed putting out the 57 Jambalaya. There was the satisfaction of doing a good joh and one that receives no reward except the appreciation and enjoyment of a fine yearbook on the part of our subscribers.

Administration. Fraternities and Sports were handled by Jerry Anthony. Hugh Lamensdorf and Sandy Abrams respectively.

Norm Glosserman kept the entire staff busy with his Organization section.

The first issue of the Hullabaloo in 1956 saw several changes in appearance. Changes which were an attempt to bring back the pre-1945 Hullabaloo, at least in makeup. The days of the tabloid-picture newspaper which rose to all-time heights in 1954, were halted and the concepts of the staid-old-line newspapers were combined with the light-feature type subject matter of the tabloids to present an attractive, less flambouyant and easily read periodical. The editorial page became a prying tool which worked constantly on the administration for needed improvements—for lower rates on student guest tickets to athletic events: for parking reforms; for better breaks for the athletes. For the first time in years, reporters were sent off-campus for features. In short, every effort was made to present a more attractive, more readable paper and give the staff members on the Hullabaloo a wider field of practical experiences than previously.

The Tulane University Directory is a handy aid to the students, faculty, and staff. Each student is listed and information is given concerning his New Orleans address and phone number, his home address, the school he is registered in, and his classification. To make the Directory more complete this year, all full-time University College students and nursing students are included. There is also an organization section in which both campus and religious organizations are listed with their president's name and phone number.

It is hoped that a precedent will be established concerning the cover of the Directory. This year the Student Center was pictured since it is such a center of campus activity.

The Publications Board, a relatively new organization on campus, supervises the official campus publications and elects their editors and business managers. The board acts in an advisory capacity on matters of policy. It is in no way a censoring committee, but a group of students insuring the freedom of the press on our campus.

The board is comprised of the editors and business managers of all official Tulane publications, and elected member of the Student Council, a representative of Theta Nu Journalism Fraternity, and two senior class officers of any one of the colleges. The Vice President of the Student Body is Chairman. Each year the board gives a tea for the incoming freshmen to introduce them to the publications of Tulane.

Omicron Delta Kappa was founded at Washington and Lee University in 1914. The Alpha Zeta Circle at Tulane was established in 1930.

Students from approximately 600 colleges and universities are nominated and recognized in Who's Who each year. Campus nominating committees are instructed, in making their decisions, to consider the student's scholarship; his cooperation in leadership in academic and extra-curricular activities; his service and citizenship to the school; and his promise of future usefulness. Recognition by Who's Who means that the student was first officially recommended from the University or college he attends and then accepted by the organization.

Assets is an honorary society based on leadership, scholarship, service, and school spirit. Each year in the spring the Assets, active at the time, elect freshmen, outstanding in these qualities, to become members for the following year. The names of those girls who are chosen are announced at the last Newcomb Student Body meeting of the year.

In their sophomore year the newly elected Assets begin their activities by acting as "Big Sisters" to the new students throughout the orientation program. During the remainder of the year they participate in Kangaroo Court held for the freshmen and serve as ushers for various campus activities.

Phi Delta Phi. an international legal fraternity, was founded in 1869 at the University of Michigan and was established at Tulane in 1911. Its purpose is to promote a high-standard of professional ethics and culture in the law schools and in the profession at large. Members are selected on the basis of scholarship and ethics.

The Fraternity maintains a legal lending library and presents a legal text to the student with the most improved grades in his second year. It also sponsored lectures by members of the law faculty and bar. It is the oldest professional fraternity in America and the national organization maintains an endowment fund for legal scholarships.

The Newcomb Dance Club was established in 1940 for the purpose of furthering interest in ballet and the modern dance. Its members dance for civic organizations as well as for campus productions. Under the able teaching and direction of Miss Frances Bush, Newcomb faculty member, the club has progressed rapidly.

At the outset of each semester tryouts are held for new members. These are known as Coryphies until they have proven themselves worthy of being elected into the ballerina group. Election into the club is based on ability and effort. Meetings are held on Tuesday and Thursday of each week in the gymnasium's Dance Studio.

Members of the Dance Club participated in various school productions. They danced in TUT's productions of "Knickerbocker Holiday" and in cooperation with the music department's "Dido and Aneais." A repeat performance of the "Pied Piper" was done for the Junior Philharmonic Society. In the spring they gave their annual recital showing various types of dances.

The 1956-57 school year proved to be one of the most spirit-filled years at Tulane. This was due mostly to the fine job done by the Cheerleaders of Tulane: Stephen Andry, Lavinia Brock, Gilbert Andry, Sandra Shainock, Roberta Carr, Tommy Smith, and Diane Orkin. The Cheerleaders led the football spectators in school cheers and general animation at both the home and out-of-town games. They also performed at pep rallies and basketball games during the season. An outstanding show of spirit was the pep rally and the send-off before the Georgia Tech game which were led by the Cheerleaders

The Cheerleaders have shown a great degree of leadership on the Tulane campus both on and off the playing arena. They were leading members of Tusk and Greenbackers, and by their lively, buoyant personalities and leadership abilities were able to lead and increase school spirit during the year.

Greenbackers, the oldest spirit organization on the Tulane campus is made up of members chosen by a majority vote of the entire membership. The members are representative of all the fraternities, sororities, and independents on campus, with each fraternity and sorority furnishing three members.

The Greenbackers traditionally began the year by selling greenie beanies to the freshmen and aiding in orientation. During football season the Greenbackers helped with seating in the student section at the games, sponsored pep rallies where the members presented skits depicting the spirit of the coming football game, distributed slogan stickers, and painted signs publicizing spirit. Incidentally, school spirit soared to greater heights this past year than it had in recent years, particularly, before the Georgia Tech and Ole Miss games. This new school spirit can not only be attributed to the efforts of the Greenbackers and the other spirit organizations but to an aroused student body. Later in the year the Greenbackers ushered at Sorority Skit Night, participated in Campus Carnival, and presented awards at the final basketball game of the season. The organization also carried out various service functions designated by the Student Council.

Tulane University Theatre (TUT) is the campus organization concerned with the presentation of plays; it is an experimental theatre, and, for that reason, has a variety of productions from farce to serious drama.

All members of the Tulane-Newcomb student body plus the faculty and staff are eligible to participate on the back-stage crew work, or to try out for a part in any production. For membership in TUT, however, one must first earn probationary membership by working on one of the shows; full membership is granted to those who have participated in two or more shows per season.

Within TUT is an honorary organization, The Corner-block and Keystone Club, which gives special recognition to those people who have been outstanding in their backstage crew work. Another group which is active in the theatre department is National Collegiate Players, an honorary fraternity that accords membership to people who have excelled in the acting phase of the theatre.

In the 1956-57 season TUT produced four delightful plays: Knickerbocker Holiday, a musical about the establishment of New Amsterdam; Volpone, Stefan Zweig's adaptation of Ben Johnson's satire on human nature: The Skin of Our Teeth, part comedy, part allegorical, part serious, showing man's ability to survive against all obstacles; and The Male Animal, a comedy about a droll professor who stands up for the rights of liberalism in a university.

Tulane University Theatre is an organization which avidly tries to promote an interest in dramatics on the campus, and encourages those with similar interests to aid in the productions.

opera workshop

The Opera Workshop on the campus completed its fifth season this year. It is the youngest organization in the Tulane-Newcomb choral groups and has presented in its short existence scenes from the standard operatic repertoire and many operas that are not often included among professional opera organizations. This season, for its first production, the Opera Workshop joined forces with the Tulane University Theater and produced Kurt Weill's musical comedy Knickerbocker Holiday.

In January the second production of the year was a chamber concert production of Henry Purcell's Dido and Aeneas. The production was a stylized performance in which Marjorie Lawrence appeared as Dido.

Tnlane-Newcomb Campus Niters got together, worked hard, and came up with a bang-up show on March 15 and 16. The original musical production "Take Five For Love" was written by Mike Parver and Henry Ehrmann.

Students produced the entire show—wrote the script and the songs, planned the choreography, solved technical problems, and drew up the program.

Under the direction of Mike Parver, with Judy Farrar holding the newly created position of assistant-to-the-director, work on the show got started early in February. Until the time of presentation there was a continuous series of rehearsals and committee meetings.

Through dramatic and comic action, solo and group numbers. "Take Five For Love" engaged about 40-45 persons. Lead roles were portrayed by Ken Flesses, Gene Sultan, Penny Winston, Janice Newman, Fritzie Davis, and Irv Kane, Becky Carson capably directed choreography: Henry Ehrmann served as technical director; Dotty Gold handled publicity.

The plot itself was not complex. "Take Five For Love" was the story of the many trials and tribulations which a group of people underwent in endeavoring to put on a summer stock production at an old Connecticut farm. The group of actors involved depicted the true human nature of various types of people.

The Tulane Glee Club has performed for many civic and University functions this year. Its members joined the other singing groups on the campus in the annual Christmas Candlelight Concert, performed a Spring Concert with the Newcomb Glee Club, and appeared with the University Chorus. The Glee Club is a very spirited and enthusiastic organization and is known for its fine rendition of classical and popular music.

The Newcomb Glee Club has this year sung music of composers from the sixteenth century Lassus to the eighteenth century Hasse to the twentieth century Britten, along with groups of folk songs and selections from musical comedies. The Glee Club performed for the Newcomb Memorial services, the Christmas Candlelight Concert, and with the Tulane Glee Club in a Spring Concert. There were also a number of concerts for non-university groups.

The Tulane-Newcomb acappella choir is the most select choral group on the campus. Its repertoire regularly includes music from early Renaissance composers up through contemporary composers. The choir has a proud tradition of high quality, and its efforts are always guided toward further perfection. The Choir sang for Homecoming. Newcomb Memorial Services. Founder's Day, and Commencement. In addition to these University functions the group participated in the fifth annual Christmas Concert. During early April the Choir toured Arkansas and appeared in a series of concerts in Fort Smith, Little Rock, and Pine Bluff. After the tour the organization presented its own Spring Concert on the campus.

The variety of acappella Choir's music adds charm to all its performances, and especially outstanding are the various authentic folk-song arrangements which represent many nations.

The Army ROTC is celebrating its tenth year on the Tulane campus. The enrollment this year is 305.

Lieutenant Colonel Fred A. Rolumbo is the Professor of Military Science and Tactics, having been assigned to that position in June 1955. Officers assigned to the unit in addition to Colonel Rolumbo are Major Alvin W. Johnson, Captains Charles G. Glascow, Jr., and William D. Williams, Jr. Enlisted men are: Master Sergeants Uhler P. Porche and Homer Evans, Sergeants first class Floyd N. Peak, Jr., James L. Robinson, and Carl D. Spears and Specialist Cook Elliott.

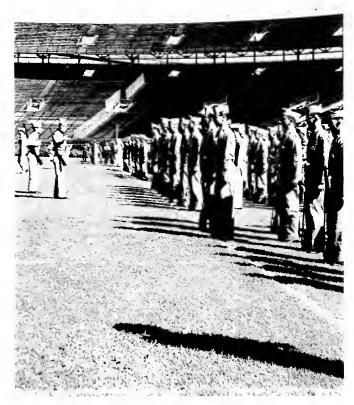

This year the annual military ball was held on November ninth. At the ball the elected sponsors for the unit were presented to the cadets. They were "Little Colonel" Ruth Knighten. Pam Dexheimer. Beth Monroe. Sandra Rosen, Joan Berg. and Betty Borne.

The unit was an active participant in the University's intramural sports program. The rifle team engaged in a number of shoulder to shoulder rifle matches. They also placed high in the National Hearst Trophy Competition, The Fourth Army Intercollegiate, and the National Intercollegiate Rifle Match.

Above all, however, the Army ROTC at Tulane is a Transportation Corps unit with the ultimate objective of training future officers for the Transportation Corps of the United States Army.

The mission of the NROTC is to supplement the United States Naval Academy in providing officers, both regular and reserve, for the Navy and Marine Corps.

Students in the NROTC are divided into two categories. Regular and Contract.

The Regular Program receives candidates from a national examination conducted on a competitive basis in each state. The candidate must serve three years on active duty as a commissioned officer following the successful completion of four years college and the acquisition of a bachelor's degree.

The Contract Program receives qualified students who enter into mutual contract with the Navy Department and are selected by the Professor of Naval Science from those who apply in their Freshman year, Contract Students must serve for two years as commissioned officers, if called by the Secretary of the Navy, upon completion of an accepted four year university curriculum.

Academic training for both Regular and Contract students is supplemented by summer training cruises aboard Naval Vessels and summer training at Naval Bases or Marine Corps Schools.

The NROTC sponsors many activities during the year and participates in all areas of intramural sports.

This year marks the AFROTC's tenth anniversary on the Tulane campus. Now under the capable leadership of Colonel Charles Sommers it has an enrollment of over 300, most of whom are in the basic course.

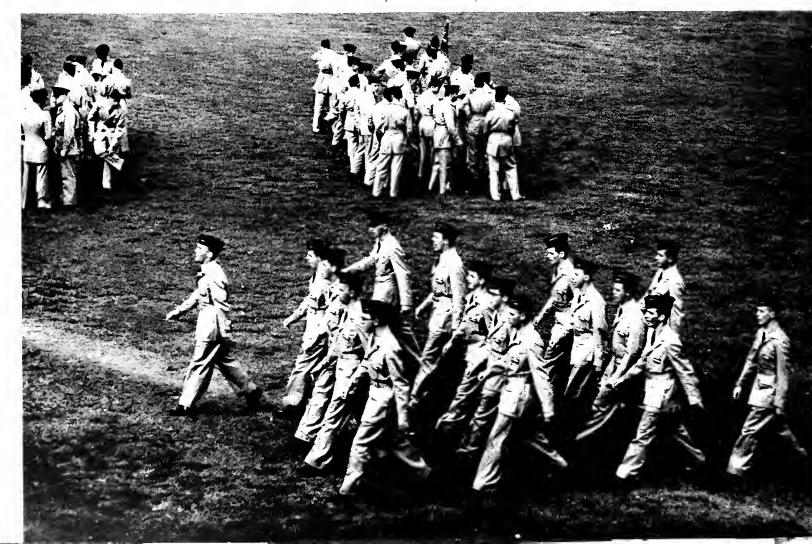

Basic cadets, the freshmen and sophomores, receive courses in aviation history, global geography, military forces, air power, and elements of aerial warfare. Next comes the examinations for the advanced phase of instruction. These examinations are both mental and physical. After being accepted into advanced, the juniors are taught instruction techniques, problem solving, navigation, meteorology, and principles of military law. Then during their summer vacation the prospective seniors spend twenty-eight days on one of the many Air Force bases throughout the country. This period of summer training is high lighted by a ride in a jet trainer. The final years training includes leadership, management, political geography and the evolution of warfare.

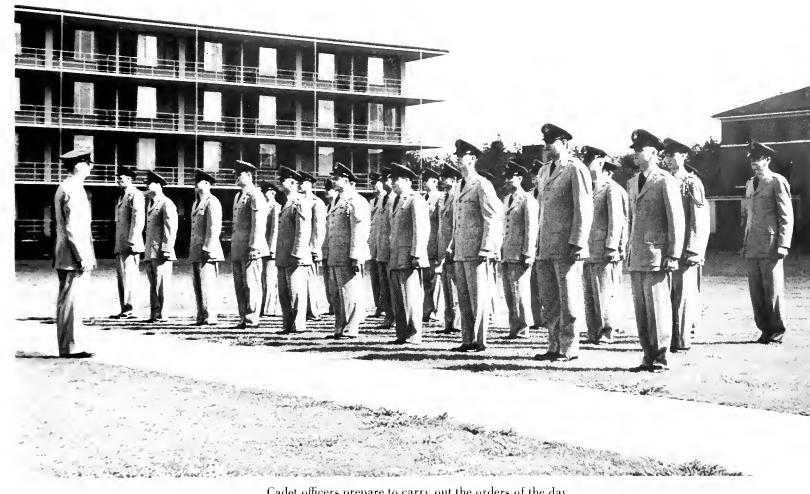

Upon graduation from the university and the AFROTC program the cadets are given commissions as second lieutenants, and must serve three years of active duty in the flying Air Force.

During the year the AFROTC sponsors many activities, including sponsor elections, military balls, a television program, intramural sports of all kinds, rifle and drill teams, and for Christmas the freshmen cadets built model airplanes that are given to the needy children of this city.

Above and beyond all of these activities the purpose of the AFROTC program on this campus is to train and guide prospective college graduates for roles as officers in the United States Air Force Scabbard and Blade is a national military honor society with local chapters, called companies, located in 140 leading colleges and universities which have ROTC programs.

Being primarily an honorary organization, only the most outstanding military students are taken into consideration for membership. These men have as their purpose in Scabbard and Blade to unite in closer relationship the military departments of American universities and colleges; to preserve and develop the essential qualities of good and efficient officers: and above all to spread intelligent information concerning the requirements of our country.

Among our activities for the year have been the following: Competing in rifle and pistol matches with other Scabbard and Blade companies: sponsoring drill competition among ROTC units here at Tulane: awarding the top men in the respective units: and selecting the outstanding freshman military student on the campus.

Our social functions included the closed dinner dance and the annual "Little Colonel Formal."

The Anchor and Chain Society, composed of selected Midshipmen, holds a position of organizational importance within the NROTC Unit. In semblance to the Society, stands the imposing anchor and chain in front of the Navy building. The Society's functions include planning of all annual social affairs of the unit culminating in its gala staging of the unforgettable Farewell Ball during Graduation Week. The Society holds the responsibility of fostering unit morals and encouraging "esprit de corps" through promotion of such enterprises as the Task Unit, only military year-book on Tulane's campus.

Composed of representatives from each of the Newcomb sororities, the Newcomb Pan-Hellenic Council serves to promote unity and cooperation among the sorority groups and to facilitate the execution of all inter-sorority activities.

The Pan-Hellenic Council is responsible for compiling rules governing rushing, pledging, initiation, and other activities. Sorority Skit Night and the Bridge Tournament are sponsored by the Council, and a Scholarship Banquet is held each Spring honoring the pledges and actives obtaining the highest average in each sorority. It also awards the Pan-Hellenic Cup to the outstanding sorority of the year.

epsilon Chapter of alpha delta pi

Founded at Wesleyan College in Macon, Georgia in 1851, Alpha Delta Pi is the oldest social sorority in existence. Newcomb's Epsilon chapter is proud to be a part of this wonderful heritage. Epsilon celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of its founding on the Newcomb campus this year in November. Alpha Delta Pi's national headquarters are located in Atlanta. Georgia. National Conventions are held every two years at various locations of interest. In June of 1957 the convention will be held in Nassau, and several Epsilon girls plan to attend. The sorority's colors are blue and white, and its flower is the violet.

Alpha Delta Pi members have always been energetically active in the Tulane-Newcomb student activities, program. With members in student government, spirit, religious, honorary, and musical organizations. Alpha Delta Pi members have played an important role in the campus activities of the year.

The Alpha Delta Pis started off a busy and successful year with their rush activities. On the night following pledging the annual pledge banquet was held. As is customary, the pledges entertained the actives with a Hallowe'en Party; and a tea honoring the Mother's Club and the Alumni Association was also held in October. A boat dance, luncheons at the house, a Christmas party, the initiation banquet, and the most anticipated function of the year, the annual Spring Formal, were some of Epsilon's activities for the year. One of the high points of the year was the Fiftieth Anniversary Banquet, which had as its honored guests the present National Grand President and the first National Grand President of the sorority. These and other activities helped to make A.D. Pi's year a happy and prosperous one.

The Epsilon chapter of Alpha Epsilon Phi was established at Newcomb College in 1916. The colors are green and white and the flower is the lily of the valley. The National sorority was established at Barnard College on October 24, 1909, of which there are 40 chapters.

Epsilon's favorite achievement of 1956 can be found at 914 Broadway—our new AEPhi House, which was really fabulous to come back to after a wonderful summer. Having our new house also gave our good pledge class a few extra duties.

Since that day in September when we all assembled together for another wonderful year, there have been many memorable "get togethers" there—box suppers, pledge and active dessert parties, decorating for Homecoming (this being the first time that we could participate), planning for our Christmas party, and many other exciting events. We looked forward to our Spring formal and the banquet given by the pledges.

With a larger pledge class than ever, participation in various activities has increased; therefore, Epsilon chapter of Alpha Epsilon Phi is achieving one of its many goals—to have an active participation in every phase of Newcomb and Tulane life.

In between the polishing sessions, we Betas found time for a wiener roast, a Homecoming party, a Mothers' Tea, and a Christmas dance, and lots of other social Adding much to our Beta ideals of brotherhood and charity was the Christmas party for twenty orphan girls, and our three Thanksgiving baskets, teaching us that giving is as rewarding as receiving.

The highlight of the social year was our beautiful blue and silver Crystal

On the quieter side was Beta Sig's pledge-active Christmas party; our Mothers' Club Christmas party; a Founder's Day program, and a May banquet honoring our graduating seniors.

Amidst all the rush plans, the basketball, volleyball, baseball tournaments, the songfest rehearsals, the campus carnival work, the series of parties, the betterment of our already high scholastic standing, was found the trait that holds our group together—friendship.

The Spring was very exciting because of two fun-packed events. One was the Hillbilly Party that the pledges gave for the activities on March 15th, and the other was the Theta annual formal held on March Theta is also proud of their members who have explored even further and are now studying in France, Spain, and England, showing that the sorority does have a wide range of interests.

To close a highly successful rush season, the sorority initiated 25 lucky girls and settled down to improve their high scholastic average for second semester.

beta omicron Chapter of kappa kappa gamma Kappa Kappa Gamma was founded at Monmouth College, Monmouth, Illinois in 1810. Our chapter, Beta Omicron has held an integral place on the Newcomb campus since 1904. Light blue and dark blue are our colors; the fleur-de-lis is our flower.

Our annual pre-rush house party, with our own National President as special guest, preceded a successful rush week. We pledged twenty-nine wonderful girls who came to use from all over the United States. They have added much spirit and gaiety to our chapter. To help make them feel welcome, we had a swimming party the night of pledging, a pledge banquet at Arnaud's, and our own monthly pledge-active suppers. Our December houseparty provided a weekend of close associations among the pledges and actives. The annual dance given by the Monmouth duo, Kappa and Pi Phi, in honor of our pledges, was a bright spot on the calendar in November.

This year was one of special excitement for our chapter as we acquired a new house across the street from the Betas, Delta Sigma Pis and Kappa Alphas. For the second year, the Kappas won the annual Homecoming Decoration Cup in sorority competition. Our slogan "Let's Pull Bama's Tusk-a-loosa" led us to our victory.

Important dates on this year's Kappa Kalendar include our annual Christmas party, a spring faculty coffee, the Founder's Day banquet, our Spring Formal, Tuesday lunches, and our continuous active participation in all phases of campus life.

delta Chapter of phi mu

Founded in 1852 at Wesleyan College, Macon, Ga., Phi Mu has over 75 collegiate chapters on campuses throughout the United States, Delta chapter, founded at Newcomb in 1906, celebrated its 50th anniversary this year. It was honored as the oldest existing collegiate chapter of the sorority at the National Phi Mu Convention last summer.

Among the honorary members of Phi Mu are Robert E. Lee, "Stonewall" Jackson, and Jefferson Davis. The colors are pink and white. Enchantress Carnation is the flower.

Following a successful rush week, Delta honored its pledges with a banquet at the Pontchartrain. There were also suppers with dates, a picnic, and various parties for the pledges.

A highlight of the year was the 50th anniversary banquet at the New Orleans Country Club. Other activities included afternoons at the Crippled Children's Hospital, a Christmas party with the Phi Kaps for orphans, monthly luncheons at the sorority house, initiation of pledges, the annual steak and beans scholarship dinner, a spring houseparty, and the annual spring formal at the Monteleone Hotel.

Phi Mus have participated actively in all phases of campus life—cultural, educational, and social—bringing honor to their sorority and to themselves.

louisiana alpha Chapter of pi beta phi

Pi Beta Phi was founded in 1867 at Monmouth College, Monmouth, Illinois. In 1891, Louisiana Alpha was established on the Newcomb campus. The flower is the wine carnation, and the colors are wine and silver blue.

Following a very successful rush week was pledging and the traditional banquet held every year at this time. The year was highlighted by the Faculty Tea, several informal gatherings, dances, and was climaxed by the formal in April.

The Phi Phis have been active and outstanding in all campus activities. We are especially proud of Ruth Harper, our Homecoming Queen, and Ruth Knighton and Jackie Jones who were in her court. Nancy Hudgins was elected to the Jambalaya Beauty Court, and the Tulane ROTC asked Ruth Knighton to be "Little Colonel" of the Army ROTC. Ruth Harper, Elise Hopkins, Donna Laskey, and Becky Fuqua are serving as sponsors for the Air Force. Our contributions to "Who's Who" are Rozzie Whitten and Betty Osborn.

Besides social and campus events, though, the Pi Phis have given their time and energy in helping the needy in some kind of charity.

alpha iota Chapter of sigma delta tau

In May of 1955. Alpha Iota chapter of Sigma Delta Tau was initiated as the eleventh sorority on the Newcomb campus. The flower is the golden tea rose and the colors are cafe-an-lait and blue.

Rush having been successfully completed, the group began a crowded schedule of work and play. First there was a pledge installation followed by a brunch at the sorority house, a tradition begun by the first pledge class. Next the sorority held an open house in honor of its new pledges. In November, a Bermuda short party including drinks and dancing to a combo was held. Plans for a Spring Formal have begun.

At Christmas time, SDT sponsored a party for children from an orphanage. On the campus, SDT has been well represented in choral, religious, athletic and spirit groups and in all phases of campus activities. We have entered in Pan-Hellenic competition such as volleyball, basketball, decorating for homecoming, and songfest.

Between parties, work, and meetings the members kept busy striving for

ALLAIN ANDRY
Secretary

tulane pan-hellenic council

Dr. Karlem Riess

The Tulane Pan-Hellenic Council is the governing body for the social fraternities on the campus, and is composed of two representatives from each of the member fraternities. Each year the Council supervises a diversified program of inter-fraternity competition and awards a permanent trophy to the winner in each event. At the end of the school year the fraternity which has amassed the most points in this competition is awarded the Pan-Hellenic Trophy, symbol of over-all fraternity excellence. Events which are found in the yearly schedule are touch football, basketball, track, bridge, golf, handball, tennis, softball, bowling, ping pong, songfest, swimming, volleyball, skit night, Homecoming decorations and scholarship.

In September the council was host to a welcoming banquet for all fraternity pledges, and shortly before initiation week the Council sponsored its annual "Greek Week" which consisted of a series of discussions among chapter officers and pledges, and a convocation for all fraternity men. An outstanding feature of each "Greek Week" is the "Community Help Day" on which the fraternity pledges work on various charity projects throughout the city. The climax of the week was the Pau-Hellenic Formal Dance.

tau upsilon Chapter of alpha epsilon pi

An evening around the piano is always gay.

Alpha Epsilon Pi celebrated its sixth anniversary at Tulane in April. The Fraternity was founded at New York University in 1913.

This year the Tau Upsilon chapter has done plenty of work on their St. Charles Street home. They redecorated the downstairs and refurnished the Chapter room.

1957 saw a new precedent for the Alpha Epsilon Pi's. The boys initiated an annual formal week-end. The agenda included such functions as a house party, cocktail party, banquet, breakfast, afternoon dinners, and beach parties. The first sweetheart and her court were announced at the formal which took place in the Monteleone Hotel.

On campus, Sam Shoss and Joel Schatzman are officers of the Pre-Medical Society, and Mike Parver is director of Campus Night.

Socially, the brothers have had a successful season highlighted by such party themes as "Stairway to the Stars," and "Night Club Party." The annual pledge party had the theme of "Holiday in Hades,"

This year the Pi's were quite active in Pan-Hellenic sports, winning Ping-Pong and placing in many other activities.

beta epsilon Chapter of alpha tau omega

ATO founded at VMI in 1365 is the third oldest fraternity on the Tulane campus. This is Beta Epsilon's seventieth year at Tulane.

Socially the ATO's have had another fine year. The sweetheart court was presented at the traditional sweetheart formal held in February at the century room. Some other outstanding parties during the year were the Hobo, the Bohemian, the KKK, the Xmas, and the New Year's Eve parties. The chapter also had a gala Mardi Gras truck ride and topped the year off with the annual Beachcomber Brawl.

ATO placed Al Keller, Tom Randolph, and Frank Stewart on the Student Conncil. Frank Stewart was elected Vice-President of the student body. Manmus Claverie was elected president of the Republican Club. Tom Randolph and Al Keller each hold offices in their respective engineering classes. Jay Tone is business manager of the Student Directory.

The Tans are looking forward to more fine years thanks to the help of house mother, Mrs. Emily Knight who is currently in her seventeenth year with the chapter.

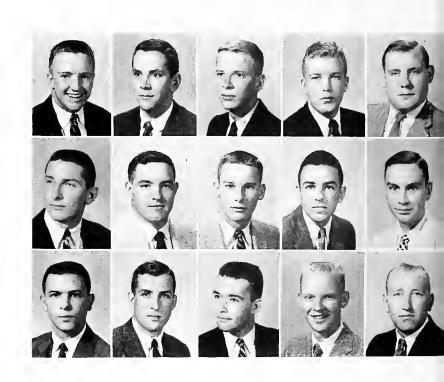

Next year the brothers hope to come back to a completely remodeled chapter house.

beta xi Chapter of beta theta pi

The ping pong table was a center of interest this year, as usual.

Beta Xi chapter of Beta Theta Pi has been at Tulane since 1908. This year the chapter has made great strides, now ranking high in the Pan-Hel standings.

Besides an active interest in Pan-Hel events, the Betas have been blasting via many different parties. A Jungle Party, a Gangster Party and a Champagne Party are among the various affairs held by the brothers. Outstanding among the year's social gatherings, however, was the chapter's annual Blue and White Formal, held at the Metairie Country Chub.

On campus, the brothers are well-represented. Bill Dyer heads the list, being a Greenbacker. Scabbard and Blade member, and on the Judicial Council of Pan-Hel. Prent Seymour is President of the Freshman class in the school of Architecture. Bobby Shafto is presiding officer of Adelphons.

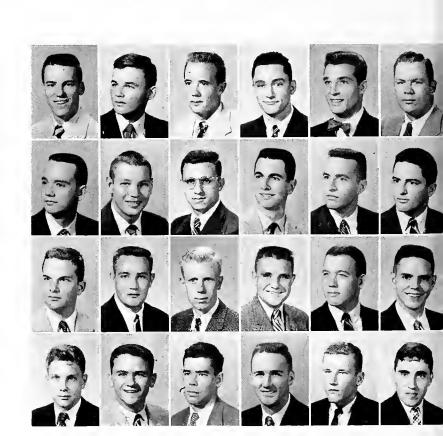

The big project of the year for Beta Xi Chapter has been the building of a patio in the backyard.

tau lambda Chapter of delta kappa epsilon

The fraternity house at 1469 Henry Clay.

Delta Kappa Epsilon came into existence at Yale in 1844, and has been at Tulane since 1899. The Tau Lambda Dekes have made their presence on the Tulane campus known by achievement, activity, and good parties.

In the academic field, the chapter produced five boys chosen to "Who's Who." Allain Andry and George Leonard made Phi Beta Kappa. In Law School Andry was also chosen for the Law Review, while Ewell Walther, a Fullbright Scholar, was chosen as the editor. Engineering School chose Jimmie Hanemann as their President and Jimmie Gundlach was picked for Tau Beta Pi. Stanley Stumpf was honored by his teammates and chosen captain of the Tulane basketball team. He was also elected A.&S. Vice-President. J. V. Burkes is a prominent member of the Tulane football squad while Pat McKenna plays on the tennis team. As this old order gives way to the new our 17 pledges promise to hold up the traditions set for them by past achievements.

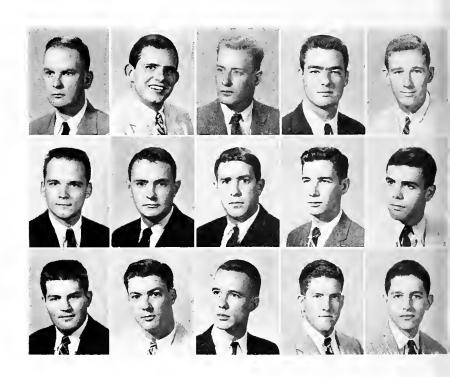

Together with the serious work was a year marked with serious play. The rush week started the ball rolling and without too much effort it has been kept going. As in the past this year has been marked by many memorable parties.

chi Chapter of delta sigma phi

In the afternoons one often found a basketball game on the court in the back yard.

Delta Sigma Phi was founded at City College of New York in 1899 and has been a Tulane institution since 1916. The Delta Sigs pledged 32 men through the rushing of a bayou brawl, a barbecue, and a boat ride.

This year the chapter has done plenty of work improving its house. The brothers re-did all of the upstairs, tiled the floors and bought new furniture for the entire downstairs.

Party wise, besides an active rush week, the Delta Sigs have thrown a "come as you were" party in cooperation with the Bridie Murphy fad, a deep sea cruise, and a formal. The chapter also gathered for a gigantic truck blast during Mardi Gras.

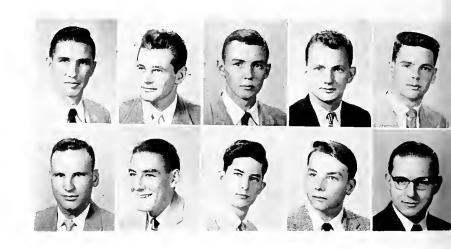

Wheels on the campus include Tim Buckley as secretary of the Freshman Class of Arts and Sciences, Don Lee as Student Council representative, and Brother Koppa—head naval cadet for first semester.

Chi chapter is proud of winning the national trophy for most improvement in scholarship during the past year.

The fraternity house at 496 Audubon Street.

Delta Tau Delta which has been at Tulane since 1889 after its founding at Bethany College in 1858 is planning to move. Tentative plans have been made for a new home.

The parties given at the Delta Shelter this year have been wide and varied. Rush week ended with the late, great Papa Celestine's band entertaining the fraternity and prospective pledgees. The Christmas party was highlighted by the pledge class' gift to the house, the renovation of a silver serving tray. The social season's big event was the Rainbow Formal which was held at the Yacht Club. At this affair the annual fraternity trophies were awarded.

The Delts have enjoyed a successful year, and with the help of the new pledge class are looking forward to bigger and better things in the future.

psi Chapter of kappa alpha

This year our Mascot, "Moblack" was one of the best liked friends in the house.

Kappa Alpha Order was founded at Washington and Lee in 1865. Psi chapter was established at Tulane in 1892.

This year the KA's have exploded the Pan-Hel race, winning Football, Volleyball, and taking thirds in both Bowling and Handball.

Their social calendar was crammed with well planned blasts, Among these were the House Party at the Old South Hotel on the coast, the Cotton Brawl at the Deutsches House, and the annual Confederate Ball. At the latter party the brothers and their dates marched on City Hall to secede from the Union. The KA's also had many a spur of the moment Saturday afternoon Beer Brawls, The Pledge class, too, had a party of their own.

Bigwigs include Brother Barousse who is chairman of the Intramural conneil and Brother Morton, who heads the Navy Drum and Bugle Corps.

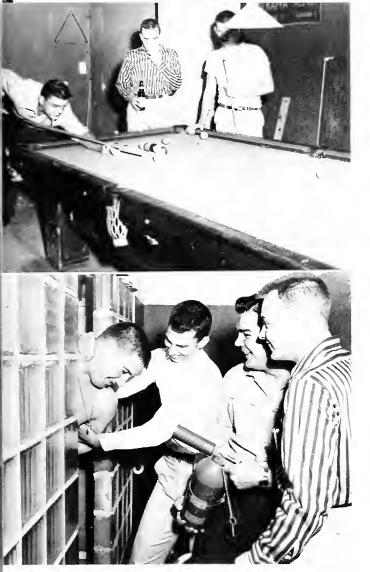

The most important acquisition to the House is the new mascot Moblak. Moblak is a dog and Moblak is Mo' black than white.

Following the words of the fraternity song, Kappa Sigma took in fifteen Pan-Hellenic points for winning songfest in December. February found the Brothers serenading the newly pinned couples of the year. Kappa Sigma this year followed a successful rush week, when they obtained the largest pledge class at Tulane, by initiating the largest number of boys.

Besides the largest pledge class on campus, Kappa Sigma has some of the best parties and the company of campus leaders Linton Morgan, Arthur Hastings, Fred Youngs, and Barney Barnum.

Climaxed by the annual formal and the Pirate Party, this year was one of Kappa Sig's best.

Party time at the Phi Delta Theta House.

Phi Delta Theta really lived it up this year. The Brothers have missed few week-ends and have given such outstanding affairs as the Barn Dance, a Winter Formal, and the annual highlight, the South Sea Island Party. Besides, the Phis have managed to take time out for other activities. Walter Ward reigns as President of the Student Body, Bill Futrell holds down the office of President of A&S, and three other Brothers head the Pre-Med Society, Phi Eta Sigma, and the Commerce Freshman class. John Abide is Business Manager of Hullabaloo. The fraternity is looking forward to many more years like the past, thanks to a fine pledge class.

mu Chapter of phi kappa sigma

Studying as all good fraternity men should

The Mu Chapter of Phi Kappa Sigma was established at the University of Louisiana in 1858, making Phi Kap the oldest fraternity on the Tulane campus.

This year the fraternity has tossed many big blasts. Highlights of the social year included the annual Bowery Party at Elmeer Fire House, the formal at Lakewood Country Club, and the big Orphans' Christmas Party given jointly with Phi Mu Sorority.

Honors have also been brought in by the members, Jim Craig heads the Pan-Hellenic Council and was Navy Battalion Commander. Bob Amann is Captain of the Navy R.O.T.C. Drill Team, and Bob Oddone was chosen as the outstanding freshman in the Freshman-Sophomore intramural football game.

Sharing honors with Craig was Bob Garcia, who succeeded him as second phase Naval Battalion Commander. Honored for their past activities were Peter Joselin, Jamil Le Blanc, and Charlie Fritchie, who were tapped into Omicron Delta Kappa. Academic honors went to Joselin and Le Blanc, Tau Beta Pi members; Fritch'e, Phi Beta Kappa; and Edmonson and Lipscomb, Phi Eta Sigma.

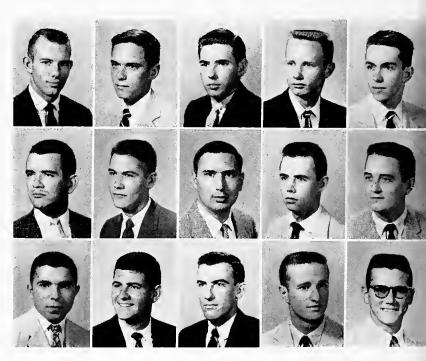

This year we owe quite a bit of thanks to our new housemother, Mrs. Ann Plaisance, who has done a fine job in her first year.

eta Chapter of pi kappa alpha

The basement, since it was decorated is a favorite spot for playing ping pong, and for card games.

Pi Kappa Alpha was founded at the University of Virginia in 1868. Eta Chapter was established at Tulane in 1878. Since then there has been a long succession of honors and projects for the chapter.

This year was marked by the complete redecoration of the fraternity house. The basement was completely refinished and a bar and game room made. All of the upstairs living quarters were beautifully redone. New carpets and furniture were added to the living room, and the bedrooms were made more comfortable. The pledges pitched in to rebuild the kitchen as their project for the year.

This has been a banner year socially, too. It was begun by the "Little Fais-Do-Do Party" rush week and was followed up by such unique blasts as the African Sleeping Sickness party and the Truck Ride Carnival. The biggest social highlight of the year was the Dream Girl Formal at the Southern Yacht Club when Pat Holmes was presented as this year's Pi Kappa Alpha Dream Girl.

The Pikes are active on campus, numbering among their top "wheels," Richard Lochte, Editor of the Urchin; and Jim Alliston, President of the International Relations Club.

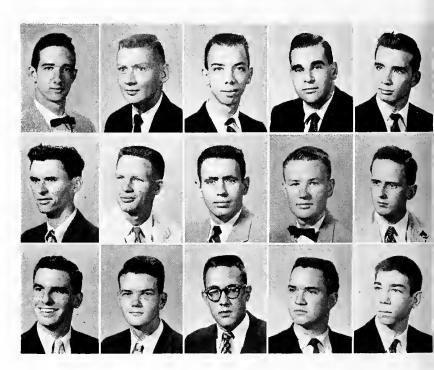

This year Eta Chapter was host to the district Pi Kappa Alpha Convention. With the knowledge and experience that was gained from this conclave and the fine new members that were initiated this year, the fraternity can look forward to a number of years in the future as bright as the past ones have been.

Singing always adds spirit to any gathering of Sig Alphs.

The Sig Alphs started the year off right with the news that they had retired the Pan-Hellenic trophy by winning it for three consecutive years. This inspired the brothers to another successful rush week at the end of which they counted 32 new pledges. As usual SAE was well represented in campus activities, some of the positions held being President of the Commerce Student body, Student Representative at Large, President of the A & S Junior class, President of Greenbackers and three new initiates to ODK. The Sig Alphs also made their contribution to varsity athletics with Brothers Mackey, Mason and Newton on the football squad, and Brother Murphy with the basketballers.

On the wilder side of life the boys went native at their Jungle Party, an extraordinary brawl, and their Cotton Pickers Ball. Along with these parties, things were a little more civilized at the Christmas party and the Winter Formal at the Jung.

alpha omicron Chapter of sigma chi

A few of the men have a card game after dinner.

Sigma Chi fraternity was founded on June 28, 1855, at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio. The fraternity was the third member of the now famous Miami Triad. Alpha Omicron chapter was established at Tulane University in 1886, making this our seventieth year on the campus.

The fraternity strives to maintain a well balanced program throughout each year including scholarship, projects, socials, and Pan-Hellenic activities.

Our success in scholarship is demonstrated by the fact that during the past year both the Rhodes foundation and the Rockefeller foundation have seen fit to award scholarships to members of the chapter.

Our social program is always full. During the fall we had a luncheon for our dates before each football game and afterwards had a party at the fraternity house. There were many unique social functions given throughout the year. One party no one will forget is the affair the pledges had for the Chi Omega Pledge Class. Another bright spot on the social calendar was the Sweetheart Ball when the Sweetheart of Sigma Chi was presented to the campus. The big event of the year was, as usual, Derby Day. This was a day of competition between the Newcomb sororities sponsored by the fraternity and held in conjunction with the University's Parent's Day.

There was quite an improvement at the fraternity house this year. Everyone enjoyed the use of the new patio which was built in the back yard.

Sigma Chi, because of good relations with active alumni, and an excellent class of new initiates is expecting the future to bring just as much credit to the name of the chapter as have the years of the past.

Bridge replaced poker and Boo-ray in popularity this year.

Sigma Chapter of Zeta Beta Tau boasts of a fine record on the Tulane campus, the brothers finished second in the Pan-Hellenic race last spring and won the Scholarship Trophy with one of the highest averages in Pan-Hell history.

Activity wise, the fraternity claims many campus leaders. Jerry Cohen is Editor of the Jambalaya and President of Lagniappes; Robbie Kremer, president of the chapter, is President of the A & S Senior Class; Sidney Rothchild is president of Pi Lambda Beta; David Newstadt is Tusk's prexy and Veep of the School of Business Administration; Barry Lewis is president of the Commerce Junior Class.

The close of every football game found the Brothers gathered for a big open house at 1006 Broadway. Week-end parties during the fall were many, and wild.

A large pledge class was taken this year and their initiation gave ZBT, at the end of the year, not only a successful term to look back upon, but a bright future to look forward to.

Theta Kappa Psi fraternity for medical students was founded at the Medical College of Virginia in 1897. Pi Chapter was established at Tulane in 1904.

This has been an outstanding year in the chapter's hisory. It was marked by the moving into the new fraternity house at 1232 St. Mary, only five minutes from the downtown medical school. The Foster A. Johns Memorial Library is housed in the downstairs of the house. This is a well equipped medical reference library including most of the important current medical periodicals and literature.

The social year started with the rush week banquet given at Arnaud's Restaurant for the fraternity by its faculty members. Among the parties of the year were the initiation party given for the new members, a beach party, faculty smokers, a beer and shrimp party and many other informal affairs. The high spot of the year was, as usual, the annual Cadaver Ball, given by the freshmen in celebration of their having finished Gross Anatomy.

The fraternity published for the Pathology Classes, a useful slide syllabus, and the Juniors and Seniors again published an edition of the Zieman Surgery Syllabus.

Officers of the fraternity this year were: Charles Brooks, President; Ted Atkinson, Vice-President; Roland Ratztaff, Treasurer; George Farha. Secretary.

For Tulane, as for the pre-season dopester, the 1956 football season proved to be a most unpredictable one. Only one game—the disheartening defeat to Tech—followed true to form. A smashing triumph over Navy, added to the Greenies nation-shocking upset of 8th ranked Ole Miss, established the Pilney-men as the Cinderella team of the South. Key injuries, which had luckily escaped the Greenies in '55, plagued Coach Pilney throughout the year—culminating in the tragic defeat to LSU.

Newton sweeps end behind blocking of Troxclair and Zimmerle in VPI game.

tulane 21; vpi 14

A highly underrated VPI squad almost spoiled the Greenies' opening game plans, but were finally subdued, 21-14.

All of the Wave scores came from the hands of Gene Newton, who passed to Will Billon for 6 pointers twice and Willie Hof once. Both VPI scores were in the form of aerials also.

Tulane cracked the ice in the opening period, with Newton hitting Billon for 17 yards and the T.D. Quillian and Hof had set it up, hauling the pigskin 25 yards to the VPI 17. Zelenka's kick was good.

The Gobblers moved next, rolling 31 yards to the Wave 24. Lugar completed a pass to Conner in the end zone, but a penalty nullified the score.

Tulane took over and methodically moved 66 yards to take a two T.D. lead. Two passes to Billon and a 21-yard dash by Quillian moved the ball to the 9-yard line. The "Mouse" hit Hof in the end zone. Zelenka converted, and Tulane led 14-0.

VPI scored next as Lugar unlimbered a pass good for 34 yards to Kerst to cap a long march. The conversion attempt was good.

A sustained 30-yard drive netted the Wave their final tally. With Virgil Jester and Newton leading the drive, Tulane moved to the Gobbler 35. Newton hit Billon for the rest of the yardage. Zimmerle ran for the extra point when the ball was deflected into his hands.

VPI added their final marker in the closing period, as quarterback Lugar lofted a 27-yard pass to end Jim Dale.

Newton was the main cog in the Greenie offensive, tossing 3 T.D. passes and completing 7 of 9 for 104 yards. The "Mouse" also ran for 83 yards. Ron Quillian gained 75 yards and was a defensive demon as was Virgil Jester, who gained 50 yards in 9 attempts. Fred Wilcox gained 64 yards in 10 plays.

Troxclair, Zimmerle, and Zelenka were outstanding in the Wave forward wall.

tulane 6; texas 7

The Longhorns of Texas quickly evened Tulane's record, as they ground out one vital T.D. and extra point, to down the Greenies 7-6.

Both teams confined their scoring to the third quarter, with Tulane breaking the ice first. The Greenies seized the third period kick-off, and then proceeded to march 77 yards in 10 plays. The Wave covered the entire distance on the ground, with the exception of a 13-yard aerial from Gene Newton to halfback Virgil Jester. With Ronnie Quillian doing most of the hauling, including a 21-yard jaunt, the Wave worked the ball to the one-foot line of Texas. Quillian crashed the twin stripes for the six points, Zelenka's try for the extra point was deflected, and went wide.

The Longhorn's winning score resulted from two bad breaks for the Wave. With Tulane deep in their own territory, Quillian booted the pigskin off the side of his foot, and the kick traveled only 22 yards. The Texans took over on the Wave 37. With Joe Clements passing, Texas moved to Tulane's 7-yard line. Then, one of the most controversial plays of the year took place. Halfback Hobbs plowed into the left side of the Greenie line, and the ball was shaken loose. Tulane recovered the loose ball, and seemed to be ont of their predicament, but the play was ruled dead before the recovery was made. This ruling proved to be the deciding factor, as Clements, on the next play, hit Hobbs with a pass in the end zone. Walt Fondren's kick split the uprights, making the score 7-6.

According to statistics. Tulane was definitely the superior team. The Wave mustered 317 total yards and made 14 first downs, to 278 and 8, respectively, for the Longhorns, Texas' Fondren was the leading ground gainer, with 100 yards in 11 carries. He also hauled in two aerials good for 62 yards. Jester led the Greenie squad with 93 yards in 15 tries, Newton and Quillian looked exceptionally good for Tulane, as did linesmen Miller and Zelenka.

tulane 20; northwestern 13

Tulane used a 2 touchdown second period to roll past a rugged Northwestern team 20-13.

The Wildcats countered first, capitalizing on a recovered Wave fumble. Bob McKiever, who gained 117 yards in 12 carries during the game, plunged over from the two.

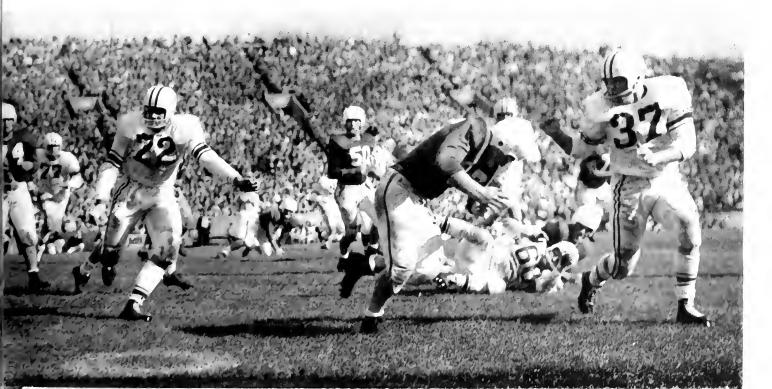

Quillian spirals into land of milk and honey,

Tulane began to march in the waning minutes of the period. and early in the second quarter grabbed the lead. Hof returned a punt 32 yards to the 'Cat 41 and Quillian and Lorio bowled the skin to the Northwestern 10-yard line. As the second period began, Newton rolled out to pass, but seeing all receivers covered, he ran the remaining yards to paydirt. Zelenka's kick was good, and Tulane led 7-6.

Minutes later the Greenies got a break of their own. Marcel blocked a Northwestern kick 28 yards from paydirt. Lorio, Wilcox and Marcel smashed to the 2, and Ron Quillian made the score 13-6.

McKiever cut loose for 50 yards to set up the final Northwestern score. After working to the Greenie 4-yard line, Quinn bucked over. McKiever's kick knotted the score at 13 all, Swivel-hipped "Boo" Mason eludes Middies in downfield sprint.

Taking the kickoff, the Greenies marched to their own 48, with Marcel and McCoy doing the heavy hauling. Newton scampered for 27 yards, placing the ball on the 25. Newton fumbled and the 'Cats recovered. A penalty pushed Northwestern back to their own 13.

The Wildcats tried a desperation pass, which was intercepted by Willie Hof for the Greenies, who returned the ball to the Northwestern 24-yard line. Newton passed to Billon for 17 precious yards, and a penalty put Tulane 1 yard away. McCoy crashed the final yard, Zelenka's kick was good, and the Greenies came home a 20-13 victor.

tulane 21; navy 6

Little Gene Newton looked like an All-American directing the No. 1 team in the country. as the Green Wave engulfed Navy 21-6.

The determined Greenie team took the opening kickoff and promptly marched to its first score. Newton grabbed the opening boot and returned it to the Greenie 25. Willie Hof and Ron Quillian worked the ball to Navy's 40, where a 15 yard penalty moved the ball to the Middie 25. In two carries the Mouse made 9 yards. Quillian got the first down, and Hof carried it to the 7. Quillian saw daylight through the middle of the Navy line and Tulane led 6-0. Zelenka's kick was good.

Big Will Billon scored the second Wave marker in the third stanza, hauling in a nine-yard aerial from Newton. On this 63-yard scoring drive, Quillian got the first 14 yards and then "Boo" Mason skirted end for 20 down to the Middie 27. Mason fumbled but Zelenka fell on the ball 8 yards from pay dirt. After a yard loss, Newton hit Billon for the score.

"Boo" Mason put the icing on the cake in the final period. After pulling down a Navy pass on the Greenie 40. Mason collected a Newton toss good for 6 points. Walt Kelly ate up 37 of the yards and Mason got the rest. The touchdown pass covered 8 yards. Zelenka converted. giving him a perfect afternoon.

Mississippians from far and wide gathered into Hinds Stadium in Jackson, Mississippi to watch their favorite boys battle the Tulane Greenies. It was a powerful, highly rated U.C. rebel squad that pranced out on to the muddy field to the roar of the home town throng. The Rebs were conference champs and boasted such feared names as Paige Cothern. Eddie Crawford, and John Blaylock.

The Rebels, it seemed were off to the usual fast start as record-setting field goal kicker, Cothern added one more to his laurels. With the Green Wave deep in their own territory, Quillian got off a bad boot which slid out of hounds on the Greenie 27. Mississippi moved it 20 yards and then Paige dropped back to the 17 and split the uprights to the approval of the partisan crowd.

It was a determined Greenie squad that gathered in the rain and mud in the arena for the second half. The Greenies opened running the boot back to their 30. On the first play from scrimmage, Newton faked twice and decided to keep. Pacing around right end the mouse eluded a linebacker and moved to the sidelines. In about nine seconds the story had been told, as the mouse stood 85 yards away at paydirt. Zelenka added the extra point. Tulane began their second scoring march with time running out in the third quarter. "Boo" Mason and Ron Quillian made most of the yardage. After working down to the Ole Miss 16, Zelenka moved back to the 25 and dropped one over the cross bar, adding insult to injury with his first field goal.

late in the final quarter, when center Don Miller fell on a Tech miscue on the Yellow Jacket 31. Newton passed to Wilcox for 7 yards, and Jim McCoy got 14. The Wave worked the ball to the two, where the drive fizzled.

The Greenies entered Tech territory once in the first quarter, aided by an Engineer personal foul.

The Wave again ventured past the 50 in the next period as Tarzetti recovered a loose ball on his own 44. Kelly, in two tries, moved to the Jacket 49 but here the Green team bogged down.

Six Tech backs broke into the scoring column, with Menger scoring the initial tally on a 16-yard jaunt. In the second period, Volkert gathered in a 15-yard toss from Vann for six points.

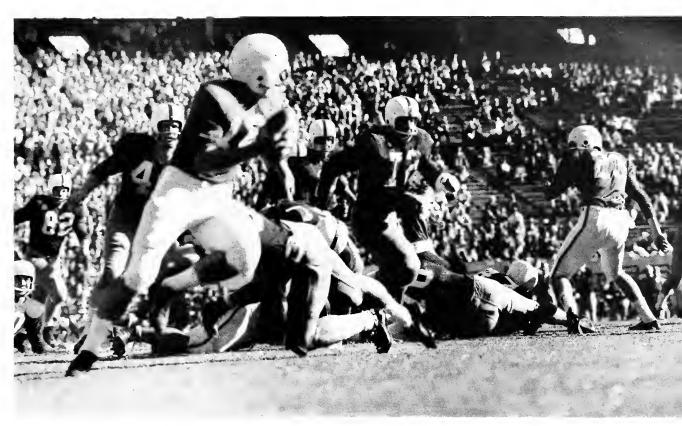

Mitchell took over next and hit pay dirt from one yard out, and Vann followed minutes later from the 2. In the last period, Gookin snatched a 10-yard pass from Delany: and then Delany himself hauled in a 23-yard aerial from Maynard.

This was by far Quillian's greatest day of the season. He carried the ball 26 times for 141 yards, but the most important of all were those he gained with less than two minutes to play.

The first half was mostly defensive, with Tulane scoring a touchdown in the second quarter when Eddie Khayat blocked a State punt and Wilbur Troxclair fell on it behind the Maroon goal line.

Early in the second half, the Greenies drove to the Mississippi State 19 yard line, from where Gene Newton threw a TD pass to Boo Mason, Zelenka's kick was good, and Tulane led 14-0.

Mississippi State was not out of the game yet, as all-SEC quarterback Billy Stacy swung into action. He sparked a drive to the Greenie 1, from where Frank Sabbatini went over. The kick was good.

In the fourth quarter. Stacy completed a jump pass to Ronald Bennett, who went 45 yards for a score. The kick was good, and the score was knotted at 14 to 14.

Tulane took the kickoff and marehed 69 yards in 16 plays for the winning touchdown, It looked as if the Greenies were stopped after reaching the State 29 yard line, as they failed to gain in three downs, But Caruso completed a pass to Willie Hof on the 14 for a first down. A five yard penalty put the ball on the 20, Quillian drove through center for 14 yards, then for two more for a first down on the three yard line, Quillian made it to the one foot line! A fumble set Tulane back to the six, It was from here that Quillian drove for the winning score.

ing exceptionally fast, they scored two quick tonchdowns. They looked good on defense, allowing Tulane to score only in the final minute of play.

'Bama began their first scoring march in the initial period from their own 36. They first hit on a 29 yard aerial, and then reeled off two more first downs before the period ended. Another pass moved the ball to the Tulane 4. Two plays later, the Crimsons were in the lead, Tulane took the kick off and almost ran it back for a score. Newton, on the second play, scampered 34 yards. Quillian moved to the 13 of 'Bama, but the Tulane threat ended there.

Alabama took over and drove 35 yards for their final score. Jim Bowdain broke loose for 17 and 25 yard runs, and soon the Tide was knocking on the Tulane front door. George Galem bucked over from the one.

Neither team threatened seriously during the third stanza or the fourth; in the final minute, Tulane had the ball on its own 29. Fred Wilcox heaved a pass to Gene Newton, who had slipped behind the 'Bama defenders, and the Wave was saved from a shutout. The play was good for 71 yards.

Quillian and Newton were again the Wave's leading ground gainers, grinding out 63 and 53 yards respectively.

tulane 13; vanderbilt 6

Tulane came from behind to topple Vandy 13-6.

Vanderbilt scored in the second period, the break coming on a Wave fumble. Starting on the Greenie 17, backs King and Ray moved to the five yard line. After losing four yards, Smith dropped back to pass but seeing an opening, dashed 7 yards for the score.

"Boo" Mason set up the Greenies' first score, pulling down an enemy aerial on the Green Wave 46 yard line. Wilcox took over and passed 8 yards to Billon and 20 to Jack Montgomery, with Quillian and McCoy netting 22 in between passes. Mason carried over from the four. Zelenka's kick went wide, making the score at halftime 6 to 6.

Third quarter action came fast and furious. McCall took a Quillian boot on his own 22 and raced back to the Wave 30 where he was downed by the last man, Quillian. Don Miller stopped the drive, intercepting a Vandy toss and bringing it back to the Wave 29. Boo Mason took a pitchout and finding himself trapped, reversed field and scooted 40 yards to the Commodore 29. Newton hit Tony Reginelli with a pass for ten yards, and he and Quillian moved it to the five. The Louisiana State's Tigers continued to exercise their jinx over Tulane, as they upset the favored Green Wave 7-6.

Tulane completely dominated the first half, but managed to push across only one score. Zelenka's extra point attempt was no good. The Tigers moved in the third period to push across their marker. The conversion attempt split the uprights, and this was the deciding point.

"Cooter" Zimmerle set up Tulane's second quarter score, falling on a Tiger fumble on the L.S.U. 27 yard line. Fred Wilcox grabbed 3 yards around end, and on the next play, pitched out to Jim McCoy, who rambled for 5 yards. Hof smashed for one, and a Newton to Mason combination failed, Newton, with fine blocking, scampered for 10, After being stopped short, Quillian busted over from the two.

Minutes later. Tulane was knocking at the door again, Zimmerle recovered another Tiger fumble on the LSU 30. Newton passed to Billon for 18, but the Bengal defense tightened and the drive fizzled.

Before the half, the Wave threatened once more, this time "Boo" Mason made a bid for stardom. Cutting out around his left end Mason was suddenly through the L.S.I., secondary, chopping off 57 yards to the Tiger 21 before being stopped. Again the Wave drive bogged down.

L.S.F., Jugan the second half by recovering a Greenic fumble on their own 39 yard line. They marched down inside the Tulane 5, but Truax. Miller, Zimmerle, Zelenka, and Company held them.

Tulane took over, but as soon as they had emerged from the pan, they were dumped into the fire. The Tigers recovered a miscue 3 yards from victory, and in two plays they had scored. The kick was good.

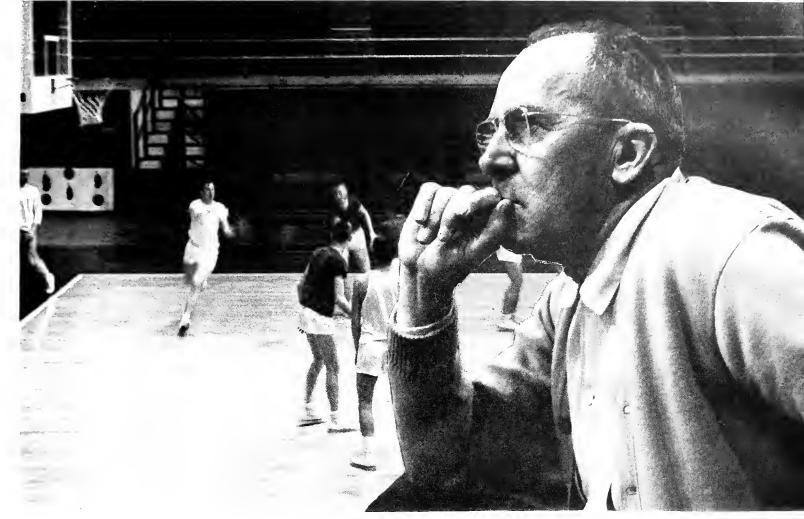

LSU kicked off, and in a few plays, another fumble gave them the ball. A penalty moved the ball to the Wave 1 yard line, but again, the Greenie wall did not falter.

Mason had his greatest day, netting 123 yards in 13 tries, Taylor was the main Tiger threat, gaining 86 yards in 26 tries. The Wave line—Truax, Zelenka, Zimmerle, Troxclair, Miller, Montgomery, Khayat and Billon—played a great game, but fumbles spelled defeat for the Greenies.

The Tulane Greenies opened their 1956-57 season by overpowering Birmingham Southern by the score of 74-44, being led by senior Cal Grosscup, who garnered 27 points, Louisiana College was next to fall before the Greenies, 88-48, Forward Stan Stumpf paced Tulane with a 23 point effort as Coach Wells cleared his bench.

The Waves' first defeat came at the hands of the University of Texas Longhorns, 68-65. The Greenies made a game of it all the way but couldn't hold on to their half-time advantage. Big Tom Murphy led the Greenie attack with 22 points, followed closely by Grosscup who hit for 21.

Tulane got back with a rousing 81-60 victory over Baylor, thus squaring its count with the Sonthwestern Conference. The Greenies took charge of things midway in the first half and really poured it on, Cal Grossenp had his fourth straight 20 point night and led the attack.

The next victory came with Stanford 64 to 53. The Greenies took charge of things a couple of minutes after the opening tap and were never headed.

A journey to Memphis, Tennessee, proved successful as Tulane thumped Southwestern, 78 to 58, Although the score was tied nine times and changed hands four times, the Greenies turned on the steam toward the end to come out on top.

The next victory for Tulane was one of its most rewarding, as it pushed past highly rated Ohio State 75-71 on their home court in Columbus. Tulane took a 13-11 lead in the opening minutes and was never headed, although the Buckeyes managed to tie it twice in the second half. Cal Grosscup again led the scoring parade with a total of 29 points.

An unsuccessful road trip was next on the Greenie agenda, During the Christmas holidays, they played in the All-College Tourney at Oklahoma City.

In their opening S.E.C, encounter. Tulane was upended by Florida by the score of 70 to 62. Then, journeying to Athens, Georgia, Tulane made their S.E.C, record read 1 and 1, as they knocked the Bulldogs from the conference lead.

The next Tulane victim was the Tennessee Volunteers, who went down by the score of 77-71. After trailing by 13 points at halftime. Tulane settled down in the second half to overcome the deficit and go on to victory. Tom Murphy took top scoring honors for the night with 22 points.

Cliff Wells' magnificent Greenies, fresh from a win over Tennessee, completely outplayed the highly ranked Kentucky Wildcats of Adolph Rupp. With extremely clever ball handling by Gary Stoll and Bill Jargstorf, the Green team executed Wells' planning to perfection in winning their first game from the blue grass state power in 19 years.

After the stunning Kentucky upset and a lackluster showing against a fine Vanderbilt team, the hoopsters took to the road. The Greenies spent the first week in Mississippi. On Friday night the Wave eked out a 66-65 win over the Rebels. Against State it was another story as the Maroons thumped them 85-72.

Next. Tulane invaded Alabama for two tilts. Alabama came roaring back from a losing streak to up-end the Wells' men. 72-53, while Auburn put the finishing touches to a disastrous road trip by turning the Greenies back, 78-54. However, the week-end was not a total loss, as Cal Grosscup became the first player in Tulane history to score over 400 points in a single season.

The Green Wave came back home and did an about face, as they swept through their last three opponents, first they clobbered Ole Miss and Mississippi State on successive nights 102-74 and 31-79. Then the eagemen closed the season in a blaze of glory as they defeated their arch rival LSU, 59-51.

The 1956-57 season proved to be one of the most exciting ones in Tulane history as an undermanned, but game and cohesive team fought to a fine third place finish in a tight SEC race.

Despite the ending of their 46-match winning streak, the Tulane tennis team had another great season and were again the class of the Southeastern Conference.

The Greenies were defeated only once, succumbing to a fine University of Texas team, Two matches later they were tied by another fine Texas team. Lamar Tech. From that point on the Wave netters regained their winning touch, sailing through the remainder of their matches.

The racketeers closed the season with a terrific surge, copping seven of nine SEC championships at the SEC tournament. Pepe Aguero led the singles parade as he. Henry Jungle. Buddy Lomax. Lester Sack, and Sonny Tsai won their respective titles. Then Aguero and Jungle joined forces, and Sack and Lomax teamed to annex the number one and two doubles crowns, to complete the sweep.

Pepe Aguero, the defending NCAA champion, again had a banner year, proving that his number one SEC ranking was not to be questioned. The team showed overall strength though, as witnessed by consistent victories by all the players. Senior netter Buddy Lomax best exemplified this consistent excellence by sweeping through all his matches without defeat to complete his third collegiate season of undefeated play.

Tulane's tennis supremacy should continue, for not only does Coach Emmett Pare have Pepe Aguero and two other lettermen returning to form a nucleus but he also has four fine freshmen coming up. Aside from senior Aguero. Coach Pare had juniors Lester Sack and Sonny Tsai back for another season. The formidable quartet of freshmen is led by Wimbledon and National Indoor junior champion. Ron Holmberg and the 1955 Interscholastic champion, Crawford Henry, Rounding the foursome are 1955 Louisiana Interscholastic champion Carl Goodman and an Illinois product, Pat McKenna.

The performance of the 1956 tennis team, plus the prospect of future strength, means that Tulane tennis has and will continue to maintain the high standard of proficiency, which has been a Tulane trade mark ever since Coach Pare's first team in 1933,

The Tulane baseball team turned in a .500 season, finishing with an overall record of 11 wins and 11 losses. The Greenies finished in fifth place in the conference with a 7 and 9 SEC record. This was not as good as their overall record, but considering the caliber of competition was quite creditable. The Wave diamondmen culminated the season with a fine finish, coming back to dump their arch rivals LSU twice. These wins gave Tulane a 3 out of 4 record against the Tigers.

Coach Ben Abadie's team showed good spirit and the ability to bounce back all season. Typical of this fiery spirit of the Greenies was the play of senior second baseman Dale Kimble, who came back from the service to help the Wave to their .500 season.

Tulane, though it was a balanced ball club, wasn't without its stars, as the Greenies had two fine hitters in first baseman Stanley Stumpf (.314) and outfielder Tom Warner (.296). Coach Abadie had a good mound corps too. The pitching staff was led by another service returnee, lefthander Doug Regan (4 and 3) and righthander "Chubby" Marks (3 and 2).

This mediocre season was a step in the right direction. though, for the Greenies. They improved tremendously over their showing of the last couple of years. This progress, coupled with the return of 15 lettermen and the fine season turned in by the Freshman team, gives vent to an opimistic feeling concerning the future of the Tulane baseballers.

tulane intramurals

With the thought of dethroning last year's intramural champions, Newman Club, 15 campus entities, under the leadership of the Intramural Council and Ben Aladie, launched their fourth season of athletic competition, with the hope of providing the most interesting and exciting season to date.

Naval ROTC lead the way in the early competition as they won the football championship. They swept to the title by defeating Newman Club in the semi-finals and the College of Arts and Sciences in the finals.

Navy enlarged their lead by annexing the tennis crown also. They defeated Paterson House in the finals. This victory coupled with their football victory enabled them to take a strong early season lead.

Newman Club won the volleyball crown to keep alive their hopes of retaining the intramural trophy. They defeated Phelps House to gain the crown. This victory plus their third place finish in football put them in second place, with a good chance to move into the lead.

Following volleyball came the big attraction of the intramural season in the Freshmen-Sophomore tackle football game. This fifth annual extravaganza, held to the tradition of providing an exciting well-played game. It was witnessed by a fair crowd who were treated to a fine half time pageant as well as to a good game. The second year men played as though they owned the Sugar Bowl and trounced the Frosh, 15 to 0.

Just prior to exams the council sponsored their first annual intramural golf tourney. The title was won by Joel Finklestein of Irby House and Maury Klumok of Army R.O.T.C. This tourney proved very rewarding as several fine golfers showed their wares and brightened the varsity golf outlook.

Intracouncil events were innovated this year as a closeknit council competed within itself. The first event, ping pong, was held at the beginning of the second semester. After ping pong, a horse shoe tournament was put on. These two competitions plus an outstanding job of co-ordinating the other intramural activities stamped this council as one of the most cohesive and efficient ones in several years.

Second semester opened with basketball and table tennis first on the schedule. Following these, the largest proposed schedule of events of any previous year was planned. This varied array of sports provided a very interesting close to 1956-57 season.

The picture for next year was brightened greatly with the propect of the opening of the new Intramural Field House in September of 1957. This fieldhouse should give the council the facilities to conduct an even more outstanding program for the 1957-58 season.

The fieldhouse is being built behind the Sugar Bowl and the present plans call for it to house; three basketball courts, a ping pong room, weight lifting room, locker and shower rooms and office space and room for the storing of other athletic equipment.

golf

The Tulane golfers moved sluggishly through their eleven match schedule and were only able to come out on the winning side of the ledger four times while dropping the remaining seven matches.

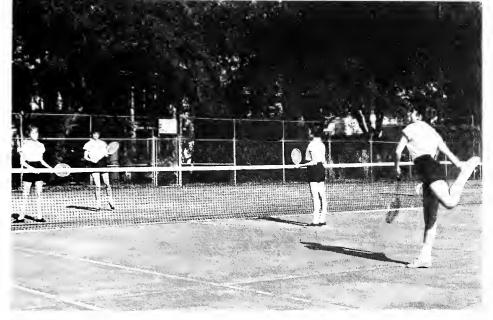

Coach Innes Millar's team showed some promise in the early part of the season, for after dropping their opening match to L.S.U.. the linksters bounced back to win three straight. Thereafter, things went from bad to worse for the Greenies, with the possible exception of an occasional good round by Captain Neil Hobson or seniors Stanton Shuller and Dick Lyle,

The prospects for next year aren't very bright. But Coach Millar does have a nucleus of three returning lettermen. Fritz Dalberg, Jack Drucker. and John Jackson to build on.

Despite the poor 1956 record and the dim prospects for the 1957 season. Tulanians need not despair as all signs point to a stepped-up and improved golf program in the near future.

Business, New Orleans, and Julane . . .

On the previous page you note an abstract of New Orleans' business. Whether you realize it or not, New Orleans business and businesses all over the nation are supporters of our University.

Educational grants and other financial support build a strong foundation for Tulane's endowment fund. Out of these funds money comes to you in many ways—from excellent professors to the yearbook you are reading. Business and Tulane are doing a lot for you. Try to remember this, and next time you have a chance, say "Thank You" to our friends in business.

Business in New Orleans also helps Tulane promote, through Newcomb College, its Newcomb Abroad Plan. This year we salute Newcomb Abroad in our Advertising Section as another Tulane Program which furthers international understanding and a true education.

The Business Staff sincerely hopes this yearbook has been a pleasure to our students, alumni, and friends, and is as profitable to our Advertisers as it is to us.

Pan-American Life
Can Make the Difference...

Are you prepared to meet the high cost of a college education for your children? A Pan-American educational plan is the sure way to guarantee them the advantages of college.

College-trained men and women can look forward to nearly $103,000 more lifetime income than their contemporaries who did not attend college. Thoughtful parents realize, too, that the costs of a college education are rising each year—up 70% over 10 years ago.

If you want to make certain your children will have the finer things in life, a Pan-American Life Insurance Company educational plan can make the difference.

College graduates—a new foundation for industry

No longer is financial strength the foundation of industry—leaders are the new foundation.

Every year our universities and colleges turn out a large number of these potential leaders in the form of graduates—Tulane is one of these universities.

The construction industry has a place for potential leaders—to those interested we suggest an interview with

Owner of Arnaud's Restaurant, daughter of the late Count Arnaud, founder of the restaurant that bears his name, as well as creator of many famous Creole and French dishes famed throughout the world.

ARNAUD'S—Selected the best restaurant of the South for the 2000th anniversary of the founding of the City of Paris.

Few are the people who set foot on the sidewalk of New Orleans who do not seek to learn the location of Arnaud's and forthwith journey there to enjoy this famous cuisine. After partaking of a notable meal, guests frequently ask the derivation of a particular dish: "Is it French?" "Is it Spanish?" The answer is that it is a combination of the wizardry of the French with the art of Spanish to make Arnaud's masterpieces.
